STUDENT HID IN LIFT DURING NICE ATTACK

AFTERMATH:
The scene in Nice after the horrific truck attack

'There are no words to describe how it was there'

Michael Jarvis

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AN OLD Harlow student has described how he waited out the horrific truck attack in Nice by barricading himself in a lift.

Will Green, 21, was on holiday in the southern French city last Thursday when a lorry was used to kill 85 people and seriously injure several more.

The driver ploughed for 2km (1.2 miles) along the Promenade des Anglais, where a crowd was celebrating Bastille Day, at about 11pm local time (10pm British time), before he was shot dead by police.

Just before that, Will, who studies engineering at the University of Hertfordshire, had been enjoying a fireworks display on the seafloor.

Speaking the morning after, he said: "When the fireworks finished, everyone walked off the beach and went down the main high street.

Crammed

"I was already a bit nervous because there were thousands of people crammed down there.

"We stopped to watch a street performer and after two or three minutes a stampede of hundreds of people came towards us."

Will headed back towards the beach with the crowds, believing there had been some sort of "flash-bang" along the street. He recalled seeing a line of police and hearing lots of screaming.

"The lorry was on the beach - that was the weird thing," said Will. "I went to a car park and into a lift and every time the doors tried to open I held them shut."

From there, he frantically phoned family and police to find out what was going on, emerging only when the screams began to die down. He then headed back to his hotel.

Ghost

Will said Nice was a "ghost town" and "lifeless" in the wake of the atrocity.

"There are no words to describe how it was to be there," he added.

Will has played football for Sawbridgeworth Town for the past five years. He is currently taking part in pre-season training with Romford FC.

SMILING: Jessica Chapman holds the hair she will donate to Little Princess Trust

Teenager Jessica inspired by grandmother to donate

A TEENAGE girl said goodbye to eight and a half inches of hair in a sponsored cut inspired by her grandmother.

Iris Bradley, 80, from Hornbeams, Harlow, is in treatment for bowel and liver cancer and her 15-year-old granddaughter Jessica Chapman, who lives in Warwick, wanted to help fellow sufferers.

Her locks will be sent to the Little Princess Trust, who make wigs from donated hair for young children with cancer, while the sponsored snip also raised £340 for the charity.

Mrs Bradley, who was diagnosed last year but is on the road to recovery, said: "I think it is fantastic and I am so proud of her."

"She did this all on her own, it was just an idea that popped up. I was crying and I still get choked up now thinking about it."

"She has had so much support from all her friends at school. She has collected £340, plus whatever has been given online. She does not know how much the final total is at the moment."

Jessica, an only child, had not had her hair cut for more than a year before she came to stay in the town for the weekend and had the trim at Seven Hairdressing, in Market House, Harlow.

Change

The hairdressers did not charge her a fee for the cut but Jessica is finding her new do is quite a change from before.

"We were all there and took lots of photos," added Mrs Bradley, who has two daughters.

Mrs Bradley, who is a grandmother to four, added: "Jessica said afterwards 'Oh nanny, I have lost my hair, it is stressful and I am stressed'."

"It took her a while to get used to it, but I said to her it's not too short. We told her she has got the latest bob and that calmed her down"

Renters are struggling with bills says charity

Research by Shelter finds the town has high eviction rate

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A WORRYING number of renters in Harlow are at risk of losing their home according to research from charity Shelter.

One in 47 households are at risk of eviction in the town due to factors including a struggling to pay for increasing rent.

Nadeem Khan, helpline advisor for Shelter, who offer advice to people in housing difficulties, said: "Every day we hear from people who are struggling to keep their rent."

Desperation

"Many are in total desperation after the court papers land on their doormat and the threat of being evicted becomes very real."

In the East of England, Harlow was found to have the ninth highest rate of householders facing eviction with 324 said to be at risk.

Comparatively, East Hertfordshire has one in 49 at risk and Epping Forest has one in 53. Luton topped the rankings with 1,074 or one in 28 at risk.

Harlow residents have shared their difficulties of renting in the town. Kevin Wilson, 32, from Little Parndon, said: "We privately rented for 10 years and didn't miss a single rent payment.

"We were promised endless amounts of work to be done but none ever was."

"Towards the end there was no light in the living room, mould everywhere and condemned kitchen among other things."

A 27-year-old Harlow resident, who did not wish to be named, added: "Renting privately is often young people's only option, and I'm sure for other age groups too."

"Many people, including me, found even renting a room is beyond what can be afforded."

Shelter gathered the statistics after analysing data released by the Ministry of Justice.

The charity said other factors which have led to the situation include a shortage of affordable homes combined with cuts to welfare services.

Mr Khan added: "It's natural to feel overwhelmed, but remember you're not alone - Shelter is here 365 days a year."

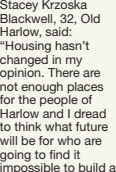

"So if you're struggling to keep up, or facing eviction and not sure what to do next, get expert advice as soon as possible. It can be the difference between losing your home and keeping it."

What YOU think

Kirsty Newman, 29, of Longbarns said: "I'm currently a full time parent but my husband works full time. We've had to come to terms with the fact that we will never now qualify for council housing or ever be able to own our own home."

Stacey Krzoska Blackwell, 32, Old Harlow, said: "Housing hasn't changed in my opinion. There are not enough places for the people of Harlow and I dread to think what future will be for who are going to find it impossible to build a new life in a home."

Mark Newman, 52, a landlord of a Harlow property: "I am a landlord, keep my rents low as I have very good tenants. I only put the rent up once in 10 years, we are not all greedy."

Devastating house fire may have been started deliberately

A FIRE which threatened to cause devastating damage to a row of houses may have been started deliberately.

Essex County Fire and Rescue was dispatched to a house blaze in Hastingswood Road, Harlow, at 2.15am on Sunday.

Two crews from Harlow fire station joined with one from Old Harlow fire station to extinguish the flames by 3.21am.

However, worried Hastingswood Road resident Shelley Savva, 36, said: "There are gas cylinders behind this row of houses.

"The fireman said that if it had been left much longer it would have gone bang, and it would have taken out all the houses." There are four houses on the Hastingswood Road estate and all use the gas cylinders for heating.

Blaze

Residents say they are fortunate firefighters were able to stop the blaze in time.

Mrs Savva lives with her husband and two children next door to the house where the fire began.

She said the house where the fire began is now uninhabitable.

"There was lots of smoke," added Mrs Savva, "Our neighbour smelt it and it woke him up. He phoned us and people started coming outside."

A spokesman from Essex County Fire and Rescue added: "In terms of damage it was limited to the living room, where it started."

On Tuesday Essex Police said they were investigating.

A spokeswoman said: "Police are investigating the circumstances surrounding a fire at a property in Hastingswood Road.

"Officers were called to the scene by firefighters following concerns the fire was started deliberately. An investigation into the cause of the fire is now under way."

Firefighters used breathing apparatus, and two thermal imaging cameras to check for hot spots before using a ventilation fan to clear the property of smoke. They used two hose reel jets to control the flames.

Couple with cancer host garden party for charity

Duo who've both battled disease want to help Macmillan

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A SELFLESS couple who have both been battling cancer didn't let it stop them raising money for a charity that supports others with the disease.

Lyn Patnell, 58, and husband Roy, 76, held a garden party at their home in Potter Street, Harlow, to raise £800 for Macmillan Cancer Support through the charity's Summer Lights scheme.

"It was absolutely lovely, I think it went very well," said Mrs Patnell, who works as a domestic services manager at Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow.

"At the peak I think there would have been 40-plus people who came in the end. They were able to sit down and have a drink. It was a social event. Everyone said they enjoyed it."

Mrs Patnell was diagnosed with breast cancer in January last year, and is in remission following treatment.

Diagnosed

Her husband, who was diagnosed with lung cancer in January this year, is still battling the disease, and has undergone chemotherapy and radiotherapy.

From their previous marriages Mr Patnell has two daughters and Mrs Patnell has a son and daughter, while they have a combined 13 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mrs Patnell said: "The beginning part of 2015 was quite stressful, but I was feeling better towards the end of the year. However, when I heard the news Roy had lung cancer it was quite devastating."

"Roy is very much like 'it is what it is' and there is nothing we can do. We are taking each day as it comes. It has been stable for the last six months but we don't know what is going to happen."

The couple wanted to support Macmillan Cancer Nurses, who provide medical help and psychological support to those in the later stages of the disease.

Summer Lights is a national Macmillan campaign whereby fundraisers can receive a pack to host their own garden fundraiser. Mrs Patnell said family and friends enjoyed a raffle, tombola, auction, bingo and strawberries at their party.

"We don't know when we are going to have to rely on Macmillan Nurses, we don't know what the future holds," she continued.

"We have had advice from them and helped with providing a stairlift, but they have not had to come out to our house. They do lots of good things."

"The services they provide are really good, and no matter what we are going through we know they are always at the other end of the phone."

She added: "It was a very good feeling, we did not know what was going to happen with the weather, but we were lucky."

Halfon made apprenticeships minister in May's Government

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon has been named Minister of State for Apprentices and Skills.

Mr Halfon, who was the first MP to employ a full-time apprentice in 2010, has said he is "delighted" to have been given the role.

He tweeted: "Delighted to have been given brief of minister of state for apprentices & skills by SoS."

Mr Halfon moves from being minister without portfolio attending cabinet to an expanded Department for Education, with Justine Greening the Secretary of State at the helm.

During his time in Parliament, Mr Halfon has championed apprenticeships.

On his website, he wrote: "Apprenticeships can give young people this opportunity to learn a valuable skill while earning at the same time, and as an MP I have led from the front in championing apprenticeships."

"I was the first MP to employ a full-time apprentice and I helped to secure £10million of government funding to build a new state-of-the-art UTC in Harlow."

CHAMPIONING APPRENTICES: Harlow MP Robert Halfon

The appointment was welcomed by Mark Dawe, chief executive of the Association of Employment and Learning Providers.

He said: "We're delighted that, with his credentials for championing apprenticeships, Robert Halfon has been given the skills brief."

"Downing Street said on Friday that growing apprenticeships would remain a priority under the new administration, so we will be asking the new minister to stick to the current levy timetable."

Charity thanks community for support after burglary

A CHARITY'S manager has thanked the community for helping it get back into action after a burglary.

The doors of the Ecco store, in West Road, Harlow, were damaged and the shop's computer was smashed in the break-in overnight on Friday, July 15.

But the hardworking nature of the staff and willingness of local services to help out the hub, which sells donated furniture and homeware, never stopped trading.

Shop manager Dean Trussler, 32, said: "I arrived at work on Saturday morning and pulled up outside the main doors and saw that it was down. My first instinct was that the staff who were here the night before had not locked it properly. But I realised that it had been broken into."

"It was heart breaking."

Mr Trussler said the hub had only lost £18 of cash, but that the cost of replacing equipment was estimated to be £2,000.

The West Road hub is the main centre for Ecco, which also has shops in Epping and Bishop's Stortford. All money made goes towards the upkeep of Parndon Wood Nature Reserve in Harlow.

Mr Trussler continued: "We work very hard and we are a standalone charity, the loss will be felt."

"Hopefully through the insurance we will cover most of the damage. The doors have been repaired and a locksmith came out very quickly."

"People were very willing to help as they know we are a charity. We opened the shop on Saturday and carried on as normal."

Hate crime concern after election result

Fears migrants are being used as 'political footballs'

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A RISE in xenophobia on the back of the EU referendum is a concern for charities and police across Essex.

Reports to police of hate crime increased nationally by 42 per cent in the week after Britain voted to leave the European Union and many feel the mood has been reflected locally.

Zak Cochrane, who is part of pressure group Stand Up To Racism, said: "I think there has been a spike in the number of incidents. Migrants are being used as a political football."

"It's as if the vote has given them the green light to go out and do these horrendous things."

Stand Up To Racism held a gathering in Market Square, in Harlow, earlier this month to unite different social, faith and ethnic groups under the banner: Love Harlow, Hate Racism.

Mr Cochrane, who lives in the town, said he has witnessed compassion amidst the turmoil and that his movement is against racism rather than against those who voted to leave the EU.

He continued: "I am pleased with the response I have seen in

SHOWING SUPPORT: Danny Campbell and Jasmine O'Brien attended the Stand Up To Racism even in Harlow town centre

Harlow, but also in Ware and Bishop's Cleeve, and the show of unity.

"There has been a lot of positivity in the way it has brought people together," he said.

Essex Police has also committed to stopping hate crime with their campaign Stop the Hate.

Matthew Horne, detective chief constable of Essex Police, said: "We don't tolerate hate crime. Whether it's an incident that takes place online or in the street, it's important to let us know about hate crime to give us a chance to investigate and prosecute offenders and to ensure that victims and the wider community are protected."

Steve Goodsell, South of England manager for Show Racism the Red Card, fears prejudiced attitudes of parents have filtered down to school children.

"We are doing more and more with local authorities," said Mr Goodsell, who visits schools on behalf of the charity to educate youngsters about race and equality.

"In Essex the vote was very much to leave and that is where a lot of our work is concentrated."

He added: "We know from visiting schools that pupils are confused. Some children are scared because they think they are going to have to leave the country."

"A lot of young people voted to remain and they are unhappy. A high percentage of pupils have picked up on what they have seen on the front pages of newspapers and on social media."

"We create a safe space where children can talk openly about how they feel."

Academy trust praise hard work of staff

SCHOOL staff have been recognised at an event held at the House of Commons.

More than 60 guests including pupils, parents, staff and MPs gathered in London to celebrate the many achievements of staff and pupils from across the Academy Transformation Trust family.

In total, 21 awards were given out to winners from the trust's academies in celebration of their hard work throughout the past academic year.

Michele Barr, head of English at Mark Hall Academy was nominated for her passion, character and spirit as well as for the crucial role she played in raising aspirations, standards and results at the Harlow secondary academy.

Principal, Corinne Franceschi, said: "Michele loves her subject and her passion shines through in all that she does at the academy. We are very proud to have a Head of English like Michele - in fact every school should have one."

manager Tony Taylor has been working for the primary since March 2009.

He was nominated by Principal Lesley Brennan for being a reliable, committed and passionate individual who goes way beyond in ensuring that the staff and children at Kingsmoor are safe, happy and have what they need.

She said: "Nothing is too much for Tony and he gives anything that he does 110 per cent. We are very lucky to have him as part of the Kingsmoor family."

Jail for women who stole from vulnerable man

Pair took blind victim's magnifying glass

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

TWO women have been jailed after tricking a blind man and stealing his wallet and mobile phone.

The unemployed pair will be behind bars for 30 months after admitting taking many of his possessions, including a magnifying glass he uses to read.

The 43-year-old victim, who has not been named, was entering his home in The Hides, Harlow, on Saturday, June 11 when Sarah Lodge and Rachel Kirton approached him and asked to use his toilet.

He let them in and Kirton, 40, headed for the bathroom after shutting the door to the lounge, where he remained with Lodge, 37.

While she was out of view, Kirton went through the man's bag, which was in the hallway. After returning to the room, she and Lodge pestered him for money to buy vodka, which he refused.

They then began walking around his home, ignoring his requests to leave. Kirton picked up a can of cider and drank some

After they left, the victim found his wallet, a mobile phone, a bank card, travel card, £10 cash and a magnifying glass had been stolen.

Police found and arrested Lodge and Kirton within eight minutes in Post Office Walk.

Investigating officer Detective Constable Leo Fordham, of Harlow CID, said after the hearing:

"This was a despicable crime against a very vulnerable victim. 'Credit should be given to the officers who initially attended the incident for arresting the pair so quickly'."

Lodge, unemployed, of South Street, Rainham, and Kirton, of Kingsland, Harlow both admitted burglary at Chelmsford Crown Court last week.

They were both sentenced to 30 months on Friday.

CAPSULE: Head teacher Elaine Heaphy with her predecessors Brian Quinn and David Brunwin and pupils

St Mark's celebrates 50th anniversary

FORMER head teachers went back to St Mark's West Essex Catholic School in Harlow to bury a time capsule.

To mark the 50th anniversary of the Tripton Road secondary school, Harlow, significant items were put into the capsule.

Alongside current headteacher Elaine Heaphy, who has been at the helm since 2011, Brian Quinn, who served from 1982-94 and David Brunwin (1994-2011) helped with the burial.

Claire Parsons represented her father and founding headteacher Anthony O'Shea by also attending the ceremony.

Mrs Parsons was among the first students of the school in 1965, when it opened.

Ms Heaphy said: "Welcoming back former staff and pupils was an important and joyous part of our celebrations."

The time capsule was prepared by the design and technology department, and items included a school badge and tie. Year 13 student Anbu Napoleon made a wooden tree which has been plotted near the capsule to mark the burial.

Resource centre a boon for schools

SCHOOLS and nurseries in Harlow have been benefiting from the work of Phoenix Resource Centre.

The charity, based in East Gate, Harlow, collect reusable products such as end-of-line clothes, unwanted goods, offcuts of materials and surplus stock.

Anything that can be reused can be taken from Phoenix Resource Centre by its members, while everything else that can be gets recycled.

It costs £10 to become a member and £15 for every visit.

Little Parndon Primary School, in Park Mead, Harlow, is one of several town schools involved.

Mary Haywood, co-ordinator at the school, added: "The Phoenix Resource Centre is a brilliant resource for all our art and design technology supplies."

Disney trio welcome open day visitors

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

DISNEY princesses Belle, Rapunzel and Anna made a Harlow nursery's summer open day a fairy tale.

The trio were on call to welcome parents and children to Busy Bees, in Harlow Business Park, with the event hosted in the pre-school's new back garden.

And thanks to the help of the princesses, and the generosity of the visitors, the nursery was able to raise £936 for childhood bereavement charity Winston's Wish.

Kim Shinn, nursery manager at Busy Bees, said: "The garden area has always been at the heart of playtime here at the nursery, so it's been exciting to watch them create a space the children will be able to have adventures in and explore.

"Having access to outside space and fresh air is so important for children, so we're very lucky to have a brand new garden to enjoy."

The garden is decked out with astroturf, a sunken sandpit, mud kitchen and vegetable garden.

257 nationwide that will be supporting Winston's Wish this year. All nurseries are committed to raising as much money as possible for the charity throughout 2016 after Busy Bees announced an official partnership.

Specialist

The money Busy Bees raises in its nurseries will be going towards funding specialist bereavement support programmes, including practitioner-led therapeutic services, regional drop-in sessions, a pre-school help book and the National Helpline, which is an emergency advice service.

Ms Shinn added: "It is their kind and generous donations that helped us to raise nearly £1,000 for Winston's Wish, which will make a difference to families in the UK suffering from a bereavement."

A MESS:
Grass in the park behind The Maples has not been cut this year according to a councillor

Long grass needs cutting

A HARLOW councillor is concerned dog walkers and children are being prevented from enjoying playing fields due to long grass.

Councillor Nick Churchill has blasted contractors Kier Harlow for allowing overgrowth to reach 60cm high in Summers Park, Sycamore Field and the Maples, which are all in the ward he represents.

He said: "It is a recreational field and Kier has not cut it at all for a year."

"They have done it in other wards but not here."

"The area behind the Maples even has a children's playground and the grass is up to 60cm high, according to Kier's own figures the maximum height is 30cm and should be cut to 7cm."

Cllr Churchill, a member of the Harlow Council Conservative group, said he and his fellow ward councillors Russell Perrin and Clive Souter had been on the receiving end of complaints.

"We have all received letters from local residents," continued Cllr Churchill.

Long

"These are saying, one that their children cannot play football outside and two, we have dog walkers who cannot find the dog mess to pick up because it gets lost in the long grass. Now they are treading in dog mess."

"Why do I have to start screaming and shouting to get something done that should be basic house-keeping?"

Harlow Council were asked for a comment but they were unable to respond before the Star went to press.

Family say council blamed them for window mistake

Wrong units were fitted to Grade II listed building

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A FAMILY has accused Harlow Council of blaming them for a contractor's mistake after the wrong kind of window was installed at their home.

Contractor Kier Harlow wrote to Alison Smith, 46, in June to inform the windows would be replaced at her Grade II listed council house in Orchard Croft.

However, after installing scaffolding Kier discovered the windows were of the unsuitable PVC type. Mrs Smith then received a letter from the council, which accuses her of harming the property and threatening her with enforcement proceedings.

The family responded by claiming the whole row of houses had been mistakenly fitted with PVC windows by the council themselves.

To add to their frustration, a Peugeot 206 car belonging to Mrs Smith's daughter Chayleigh Smith, 22, was found to have a large dent in its roof which the family say was caused when Kier took down scaffolding.

Charlie Powell, 53, Mrs Smith's partner, said: "The council had done the wrong thing by putting PVC windows in and not getting permission. They will now have to take all of the windows back out."

"The day before she got the letter the scaffolding was moved to cause a dent to the car in the driveway. It looks like someone has stood on it."

"I contacted the council and they told me it would take a long time to get it sorted. It has been a farce."

The letter the family received told them that the PVC windows were inappropriate as they do not have metal frames and went on to suggest how the family could replace them.

But, Mr Powell said the only inappropriate action was that of the council.

Councillor Danny Purton, portfolio holder for environment, said: "We are sorry to the tenant and the family for the disruption and inconvenience this has caused them."

"Unfortunately, the PVC windows will need to be taken out and replaced."

"This work will be at no direct cost to the tenant as it is the council's responsibility to replace the windows in this property. We wrote to homeowners to inform them of this. We are very sorry that the tenant received a letter in error. We are reviewing our procedures to ensure this doesn't happen in future."

"An officer will be contacting the family, this week, to discuss the issue. In addition, Kier Harlow Ltd are investigating the claim that the scaffolding put up by an external contractor damaged the tenant's car and they will be back in contact with the tenant to discuss this."

Well done to PAH

SIR, Everyone is very quick to run down Princess Alexandra Hospital, well I for one would like to sing its praises.

I was in A&E recently where the nurses and doctors went to great lengths to diagnose my problem as quickly as possible.

I had emergency surgery at 7.30am. The surgeon and anaesthetist explained everything to me, my wife and daughter so that we understood exactly what was going on and the risks involved.

After the operation the surgeon phoned my wife direct from the operating theatre to tell her how well the operation had gone and how I was.

After a spell in recovery I was transferred to Saunders ward where I stayed for a week.

During that time we had a few scares, but my wife and family were kept up to date with everything that was being done for me.

The nurses, doctors, auxiliary staff were all encompassing. They as always were run off their feet, but nothing was too much trouble.

I would say to anyone who has to use PAH that you will be in safe hands and you will be looked after.

I would like to finish by saying that the standard of cleanliness in all the departments and wards I was in was very high.

Well done and thank you PAH.

Another vote?

SIR, I am afraid I must disagree with Stephen Archer (Letters, July 14).

He claims he is not a bad loser, and he hasn't lost. From a Harlow point of view that is clearly wrong.

Some 29,602 people, (50 per cent of the Harlow electorate) voted to leave the EU. That was an impressive number, even if it didn't include Mr Archer.

Compare the turnout - near on 74 per cent - with the 2015 and 2010 general elections, both of which had less than 66 per cent.

All democrats should welcome this increase in involvement. But no democrat should be content to leave it there.

The EU referendum should not be a one-off, after which we go back to business as usual (otherwise known as apathy as usual).

If the slogan 'take back control' means anything at all it must mean that the UK electorate decides where we go from here. Now here lies a problem.

If we have 'regained Parliamentary sovereignty' as some would have it, then that means the sovereignty of a solidly pro-Remain Parliament.

Mr Archer is right in that the Referendum has no legal force. However, it should have moral force. But that will surely be seen to be beside the point if this pro-Remain Parliament goes for a deal such as the Norway option.

This would preserve a lot of what many dislike about the EU. And worse than that, the UK would have less control than it has now.

Therefore, those of us who welcome the recent flowering of democracy and also most Leavers should surely favour the UK electorate having another opportunity to vote on where exactly we go from here, either by way of a General Election or a second referendum.

Such a second referendum should not be a cynical attempt to correct the 'wrong answer' given last time.

The question put would be very different - concerning quite what relationship with the EU we should attempt to achieve.

Anniversary year

SIR, I would like to bring to your readers attention, the Royal Navy Shore

Establishment H.M.S. Collingwood, because if you say H.M.S. Collingwood or Royal Navy Electricians or Collingrad the Stone Frigate, a lot of your readers will immediately smile, think back and wonder where their old shipmates are.

2017 is the 70th anniversary of the Electrical Branch being formed with H.M.S. Collingwood being its home.

But lots of other people lived and worked there, Cooks, Writers, Seamen, Stokers, Stores etc all to keep the City functioning.

So where is everybody and how do you get in touch?

There are two wonderful Associations, both of which have reunions, arrange visits into today's H.M.S. Collingwood and the means of getting in touch with old shipmates.

First there is the H.M.S. Collingwood Association for anybody who served there.

Be they Seamen from World War II when the establishment trained those who had volunteered, the Cooks who fed them or the Wrens who clothed them, or the Stokers who kept the boilers going to provide all the hot water and right up to the present day dealing with the very latest in Electronics.

The membership secretary, Peter Lacey, can be reached on placey58@btinternet.com

Still with H.M.S. Collingwood as home, there is the more specialist and individual Royal Navy Electrical Branch Association formed specifically for those who served in any of the derivatives of the Electrical Branch be they Electrical, Radio and Radar, Control or Weapons Engineering and is more aimed at ships served on, to try to reunite branch members on specific commissions.

This Association is linked with the Royal Navy in that at the request of the Royal Navy, the name has been changed to the Royal Navy Electrical and Weapons Engineering Branch Association and can include those serving at the present time.

Partially administered by volunteers at H.M.S. Collingwood, the membership Secretary Iain Crawford can be contacted on iaincrawf@yahoo.co.uk Looking for old shipmates? Both Peter and Iain would be pleased to hear from you and set you on the right road.

Get your membership forms in and be at the next reunion.

The two associations are contemplating having a joint reunion, where wives and partners, as always, will be included. That will be a real lamp swinger. See you there.

Thanks for result

SIR, I have been reading with interest the letters from the losing remain voters with their predictions of doom and gloom.

One even quoted a recent opinion poll, already disproved in the media, saying that lots of people have changed their minds.

Was this the same opinion poll that was so wide of the mark for the last general election and the EU referendum results?

None of the writers mentioned immigration widely accepted as the biggest single reason for people voting to leave.

We in this country can now once again enjoy democracy, every five years we can now change the government if we wish to and they can carry out their manifestos without looking across the Channel.

For the last 43 years we have been offered the smoke screen of elections whilst the real power base remained with the unelected, unchecked and unaudited elite of the EU.

Since the beginning, any accounts employee that has raised the question of auditing the EU accounts has been sacked.

I am sure Sepp Blatter could bring something to the table. Power corrupts, absolute power corrupts absolutely.

If we pay three hundred and fifty million a week into the funds, and they give us back two hundred million a week, that is not a grant it is a repayment.

As far as the brilliant trade deals we have with Europe, all the Mediterranean countries are teetering on the edge of bankruptcy.

The new eastern European members are joining for what they can take from the pot rather than what they can contribute.

Of those that remain we buy way more from them than we sell.

Can you see Germany bankrupting it's motor industry just to make a point, no neither can I.

I won't even miss the rapists, murderers, gangs or religious extremists walking our streets with a right to family life.

Thank you Brexiters.

TEACHING: Marta Sturt

Successful language school set to expand

PRESTIGE Language School in Harlow has proved such a hit that owner Marta Sturt is to open a second centre.

Polish-born mother-of-two Mrs Sturt started the tuition business in 2013 by herself after funded training from NWES.

But three years later she runs two classes per day with help from two other teachers from their base at the Harlow Business Hub in River Way.

Now she is planning to open a second centre in Bishop's Stortford later this year and owes her success to the training and support from NWES, a non-for-profit business agency.

Future

Mrs Sturt said: "The school grows in strength each month and I can see a bright future."

"The training was just what I needed. I came away with a clear idea of what my next steps should be to start the company."

"Not only did NWES provide me with the knowledge and tools needed to start up the business, but more importantly they have given me confidence and belief that I am capable of achieving something amazing."

Mrs Sturt was born in Poland, but moved to Manchester 12 years ago as part of a student exchange and has since got married and moved to Harlow.

Only four pupils attended the early lessons but through solid leadership and hard work the school boasts 55 students and is the town's leading centre of its kind.

Teacher to climb in memory of grandma

Team to tackle Three Peaks for community charity

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TEACHERS from two Harlow schools will scale the highest mountains in Scotland, England and Wales in a gruelling fundraiser.

Neil Coster, who is headteacher of Pemberley Academy in Hodings Road, is leading a team training to complete the Three Peaks Challenge in memory of his late grandmother Ivy Glazebrook.

Joined by family members and Natalie Radmore, who is a science teacher at Passmores Academy, in Traces Road, Mr Coster hopes to raise £1,500 for The Salvation Army with the challenge.

He said: "Sadly we lost my grandmother in April and we felt that it would be fitting to do something in her honour."

"As she was so involved in The Salvation Army it seemed natural that we should look to support some of the wonderful work they do locally. I know she'd be very proud."

The National Three Peaks Challenge is seen as the ultimate test of endurance for walkers. Competitors need to scale Snowdon in Wales, Scafell Pike in the Lake District, Cumbria and Ben Nevis in Scotland within a strict 24 hour period - including travelling.

Mr Coster added: "Physically it will be difficult but it's something we are all training for so hopefully it will be ok."

"I think the first mountain will be the worst. We have been going out for long walks in training but the mountain territory will be new. I will be spending my summer in Canada, so hopefully I can do some walking there."

The Three Peaks, which are the respective highest points in Wales, England and Scotland, are all more than 900m in height - with Ben Nevis standing at 1,345m as the UK's highest summit.

Skills

However, the challenge does not end with the walking as navigational and time-keeping skills are needed to drive from mountain to mountain.

Mr Coster's team also includes his parents Malcolm and Lorraine Coster, his sister Megan Coster, his brother Ray Coster and partner Siobhan Austin.

The team will be toured from peak to peak on a minibus and will sleep in between walking. They set off on the afternoon of Saturday, September 10 in Ben Nevis and will next scale Scafell before finishing at Snowdon.

The group has already raised more than £1,000 towards their target while a fundraiser will be held at Pemberley Academy.

To donate visit: www.justgiving.com/fundraising/Megan-Coster1.

UK's fastest growing sport is coming to the town park

A HYBRID game of football and golf is coming to Harlow in time for the summer holidays.

Footgolf is the fastest growing sport in the country and offers a cheaper alternative to the version with clubs.

Golfwise Ltd will bring facilities to Harlow Town Park for players of all abilities to come and have a go.

Competitors kick a football around a pitch and putt golf course, avoiding the hazards and attempt to shoot into a football-sized hole in the ground.

As with golf, the winner of the game is the player who completes the course in as few kicks as possible.

David Bugg, director of Golfwise, said: "Footgolf is quicker to play, more accessible to players, and does not require expensive equipment nor hard-to-acquire skills, so it has a lot going for it. It is an inclusive sport, open to all ages and abilities - almost everyone can kick a ball. We believe Harlow is a strong football town and it will be very popular."

Golfwise is still awaiting confirmation of a lease to begin the set-up but the company hopes to tee-off this weekend for a project that could span multiple years. The course will have nine holes and be on the former pitch and putt site near the Greyhound pub.

Prices are yet to be confirmed but Mr Bugg said it will cost £5 for juniors and £9 for adults.

For more information about footgolf in Harlow contact Golfwise's office in Chelmsford on 01245 257682.

In brief

Live music at fun day

HARLOW: Live music, a barbecue and range of entertainment is on offer at Livingstone House's summer fete.

The home for adults with learning disabilities, in Potter Street, Harlow, will open its doors from midday to 4pm on Saturday, July 23 for all residents to enjoy the day of activities.

Essex County Fire and Rescue Service will also be present at the home, which is run by Sanctuary Supported Living.

As well as their own room, Livingstone House residents have access to a large communal lounge and landscaped gardens which have been designed for wheelchair users.

There will be a fun day entrance fee of 50p.

Power cut after fire

HARLOW: A live electrical cable caught fire on Monday causing power to be cut in more than 1,000 homes.

Police and the fire service attended the scene in Hobbs Cross Road on Monday afternoon.

The fault caused a power outage to large parts of the town including Newhall, Old Harlow and parts of Edinburgh Way.

Power was restored to most properties about an hour after the incidents others had to wait for several hours.

A spokeswoman for UK Power Networks said: "We understand how difficult it is to be without power and apologise for any inconvenience."

Electric cupboard fire

HARLOW: Firefighters extinguished a house fire in Rye Hill Road on Saturday.

Essex County Fire and Rescue Service were called at 9.20am to the blaze which started in the property's electrical cupboard.

Crews used breathing apparatus to treat the fire as well as two hose reel jets and one dry powder extinguisher to bring the flames under control.

Two ventilation fans helped clear the property of smoke.

During the worst of the blaze the ground floor was said to be 20 per cent alight and 100 per cent smoke logged. Two fire appliances from Harlow, one from Epping and one from Old Harlow were dispatched.

ECFRS said the fire was out by 9.57am.

Balloon business is floating on success

Mother-of-three Debbie launched the company

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A MOTHER-OF-THREE is hoping her decision to go where the wind takes her will pay off with her balloon business.

Debbie Burns launched The Unique Balloon Boutique from her home in Lavender Close, Harlow, after previous ventures in other jobs.

"It's a new business venture that I'm in the process of setting up," said Debbie, who is 45.

"It is a service that is unique. I am trying to create things which are beautiful and special for any occasion.

"At the moment I am working from home. Hopefully as things develop we can move into a bigger premises or a shop.

"People can ring, Facebook or message me to make a booking."

Balloons, both air and helium, can be ordered in different styles with any message.

"Balloons within balloons are also available while Debbie is learning how to make animal sculptures.

"I can do anything, really," continued Debbie. "It could be for birthdays, weddings or as a

While keeping mum has slowed things down, Debbie said: "I wanted something that fits around the family and I love creating, and who doesn't like balloons?"

The Unique Balloon Boutique has a strong following on social media, despite the business being in its infancy.

Happy

"And despite being far from well-established in the town, Debbie's hard work has won her strong reviews from happy customers online.

Starting your own business is a big commitment, but although the trade took some time to become established, Debbie is now reaping reward from her investment.

Debbie added: "I want it to be successful, I want happy customers and I want to enjoy what I do."

Ambulance service improves

EAST of England Ambulance Service Trust is responding to emergencies faster despite a 2.5 per cent hike in calls.

The latest figures published by the trust, which covers Harlow, showed waiting times for ambulances were also down and handover delays have been reduced.

Robert Morton, chief executive of EEA, said: "The results follow the relentless focus on improving our services in the short term.

"I want to thank all our staff and volunteers for the massive contribution made in responding to patients and for high quality care.

"We also continue to recruit more staff and would encourage anyone interested in a career in the ambulance service to apply today. As a paramedic, I know first hand what a rewarding job this can be."

However, EEA acknowledged performances were lower than targets set.

Mr Morton added: "At the same time as improving our service we are looking to the future and how we can give our staff more clinical skills so more patients can be treated in the community."

Hospice strike partnership

ST Clare Hospice has been assured extra funding after becoming Attwaters Jameson Hill Solicitors' Charity of the Year.

The Hastingwood-based hospice needs £3.75 million a year to keep running and the law firm, who have a branch in Harlow, has pledged to help through a range of fundraising events.

After confirming a 12-month partnership, Joyti Henchie, partner and head of family law, said: "We're delighted to announce the selection of St Clare Hospice.

"Over the coming year, we'll be doing all we can to help fund the charity's great work, encourage others to support the cause and raise awareness of St Clare's constant need for income. It's a wonderful charity that's helped so many people through difficult times.

"St Clare Hospice was previously Attwaters' Charity of the Year in 2009, when we got quite close to raising a five-figure sum; a 28-mile sponsored walk by 40 staff clocked up more than £4,000 on its own. We'd love to do even better for them this time around."

Amy Jacobs, St Clare's corporate partnership manager, added: "We are delighted that Attwaters has chosen St Clare as its charity of the year again.

"As a key local business, it sets a great example to other organisations as to the value of a charity partnership for all stakeholders."

Driver handed a suspended jail sentence

Woman admitted covering up the crash

Court Reporter

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

A DRIVER who covered up a crash which killed Harlow motorcyclist Jonathan Aicken has been handed a suspended prison sentence.

Unemployed Lucy-Jane Williams, 27, of Fillingham Way, Hatfield, pleaded guilty to doing acts tending to pervert the course of justice, failing to stop and failing to report an accident.

She was sentenced to 14 months imprisonment suspended for 18 months, a community order for 12 months, 200 hours unpaid work and disqualified from driving for 12 months.

Sentencing her, Recorder Maryam Syed said: "You must have realised you struck something and struck something more than an animal."

Williams had admitted assisting in the disposal of evidence by deleting phone messages containing conversations regarding her true knowledge of the incident.

An earlier inquest heard that Mr Aicken, 24, known to his friends as 'Panda', died as the result of the injuries he sustained after his Yamaha motorbike was in collision with a BMW car in Tylers Road, Roydon, on Christmas Eve, 2014.

LOVED: Jonathan Aicken

Following the crash, Williams went home and waited nearly 40 hours before police were contacted about her being the driver. Williams claimed that she thought she had struck an animal.

The court had heard that she had also deleted phone messages and waited four months before giving police the phone code so they could access them.

Family and friends of Mr Aicken packed the courtroom where Williams shook in the dock as she was sentenced.

The court heard, she had been diagnosed with depression four weeks before the accident and was taking anti-depressants.

Prosecutor Richard Kelly told the court: "Mr Aicken was negotiating a left hand bend and for reasons unknown, himself and his bike entered into the opposite carriageway and there was a collision between them. She continued on leaving him at the side of the road, unfortunately where he died."

Williams' friend Sally Beach, 27, of Cherry Way, Hatfield, and her father Richard Williams, 52, of Homestead Road, Hatfield, who had been involved in the cover-up have received police cautions and charges of perverting the course of justice against them were dropped.

Senior Investigating Officer Detective Inspector Scott Egerton said after the hearing: "We will never know the true reason Lucy-Jane Williams did not want to remain at the crash.

"By choosing to leave she delayed the arrival of paramedics and left Jonathan Aicken to die.

"The actions she took to hide her involvement were deceitful and caused further heartache for his family. It is some small relief to them that she has admitted her guilt at court."

Woman assaulted by men in garage area

A WOMAN in her 40s was seriously assaulted in Broadfield, Harlow, by two men.

The pair approached the victim sometime between 11.15pm and midnight on Saturday, July 9.

They attempted to steal her handbag before assaulting her in a nearby garage area. Both suspects are described as white and in their 30s.

Essex Police has launched an appeal for information about the incident they are describing as a serious assault.

Bonnie Moore, temporary detective inspector, said: "This happened in a residential area near a pub and there would have been people in the area at the time.

"I am appealing to anyone who may have seen anything suspicious or who noticed two men hanging around the area before or after the time of the assault to contact us.

"I am particularly keen to trace a man who saw the victim with the two men and spoke to them, but was told by the suspects that they knew her."

Anyone with information should contact T/DI Moore on police non-emergency number 101. Alternatively they can give information to the independent crime-fighting charity Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111 or via an anonymous online form at www.crimestoppers-uk.org.

The effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking have analysed what happens when companies include press advertising in their media mix.

They looked at 500 econometric models, across a five-year period and discovered that adding newspapers dramatically increases the return on investment of other media.

Over half were service companies who saw the effectiveness of their TV advertising double, ROI of their overall campaigns treble and their online digital display enjoy a four-fold increase.

Individual categories also saw impressive results.

Automotive campaigns clocked a 70% increase. In travel, effectiveness trebled. In retail it leapt by 2.8 times. And most remarkable of all, in the financial category, Benchmarking uncovered an increase of 5.7 times.

So, whatever business you are in, you should be in the newspapers.

Things to do rain or shine

The school holidays are here but what to do when it's not sunny? Sam Wylie-Harris shares some ideas for family fun whatever the weather

Summer's here! Not that you'd necessarily know it, since, in typical British style, it's sunny one minute, pouring with rain the next.

But don't worry too much; while the unpredictable weather may stop us from heading to the great outdoors, there's plenty to keep the kids entertained under cover.

Here are 30 things to keep kids (and grown-ups!) entertained when the showers strike over the school holidays...

■ Take them trampolining - with all that bouncing around, the kids can burn off energy while having a good time.

■ Plan a trip to the movies - Finding Dory is released on July 29 at cinemas nationwide, and promises to be even bigger than Finding Nemo!

■ Colour yourselves calm by giving them a colouring book and lots of lovely bright crayons to keep them amused (parents can benefit from the stress-busting benefits of colouring-in too).

■ Take them on a big day out to London's Science Museum. They'll love the IMAX Experience and its massive screens - Titans Of The Ice Age 3D is not to be missed!

■ Banish boredom with a board game. They're making a comeback, and who can resist a game of Monopoly?

■ It's a bake-off! Throw a cupcake party and get the kids to make cupcakes, they'll love spooning the icing from the mixing bowl.

■ Don't be puzzled thinking of things to do; get that 150-piece jigsaw out and you'll (hopefully) have peace and quiet for hours.

■ Make some ice lollies; just get the mould and wooden sticks and go wild with flavours.

■ Check out Kids Week, from August 1 to 31, where kids 16 and under can see a selection of West End shows for free (accompanied by an adult) along with a host of activities on offer (www.kidsweek.co.uk).

■ Have an arty afternoon and take them to a gallery, which may inspire a culture culture in the family.

■ A double decker bus tour is the best way to explore cities in the rain.

■ There's nothing like combining some healthy fear and fun; why not head to your nearest theme park and seek out the under-cover attractions, minus the crowds?

■ Discover the Making Of Harry Potter at the Warner Bros Studio Tour (www.wbstudiotour.co.uk).

easier than you think - all you need is a large T-shirt, scissors, felt and fabric glue. Visit www.netmums.com to find out how.

■ Get creative with pasta shells and glue and challenge the kids to a pasta canvas contest (you could promise spaghetti Bolognese for lunch as a reward).

■ Play hide 'n' seek. Traditional games never go out of fashion, and you'll be amazed how many nooks and crannies kids can hide in at home.

■ Hunker down with a good book - children love to be read to, plus it will improve their development and instil a love of reading. Win-win.

■ Create a dressing-up box filled with clothes you no longer wear, girls and boys alike love dressing up. They could put on little plays for you too.

■ Host your own red carpet party - invite their friends over to watch a DVD and then get them to write a film review.

■ Splash about at an indoor swimming pool.

■ A 24-lane bowling alley will keep them stimulated, and you can treat them to a milkshake afterwards.

■ If they love slides, swings and climbing frames, take them to an indoor play area.

■ Use the rubbish weather as an excuse for the children to tidy their rooms and get rid of loads of waste. You never know - make it a competition and they might love it!

■ Build a fortress. It's really easy: take the cushions off the sofa, hang sheets across the furniture and camp out.

■ Organize an indoor treasure hunt... trinkets, coins and sweets are all worth hunting down.

■ Escape to a cave! There's so much mystery when you enter a labyrinth of dark mysterious passageways and take a fun tour.

■ Sea it to believe it... head to an aquarium and enjoy magnificent marine displays.

■ Paint a picture. Pretty watercolour paints, a few brushes and a little imagination are all it takes.

■ Go outside to the greenhouse, and plant some seeds without getting wet!

■ Download an app for the kids to play on your tablet or smartphone. Here are 47 of the best which are cheap or free: www.pcadvisor.co.uk/test-centre/google-android/best-kids-apps-2016-best-apps-for-children-ipad-iphone-android-may-3464905

Three tips to help your children choose the perfect things to do this summer

LET YOUR CHILD CHOOSE

Being a busy parent can often send you into manic year-round scheduling of your child's time - both term-time and during the holidays. Sometimes, parents just like to keep it easy and book the same holiday clubs each year, or find ones that suit the commute route or offer extended hours. Whilst these are important, it's also VERY important to take time out, sit down with your child and discuss what they really want to get out of their summer holidays. Attending activities which are an extension of a favourite hobby eg. drawing, cooking, lego or watersports, will add much more value of summer fun for your child, and the it will really feel like a holiday rather than just another structured session like school.

ORGANISE WITH FRIENDS

Holiday workshops and camps are a great way for a child to develop not just physical and intellectual skills, but develop those well needed social, emotional and personal development skills outside of a home and school environment.

Being with friends and making new friends is what summer is all about. Plan activities that your child would like to do with their pals and watch them grow relationships and make wonderful memories.

They'll be sure to have lots of summer stories to tell back at school in September!

MIX IT UP!

The last thing you want to do is over-schedule your child with six weeks worth of holiday camps. There must be downtime during the summer to just be at home, at the park, playing alone or with friends with no timetable or planning in sight!

As parents, we need time to relax, so why can't our children do the same?

It's important for children to amuse themselves, when they feel bored they can be at their most creative.

You don't have to always book an activity, attend an event or spend money to have fun this summer - just enjoy home and family life and go with the flow.

Science is fab, fascinating and fun!

FORGET your memories of dusty school labs, today's kids are excited about experimenting. Thanks to Brian Cox, Horrible Science and even Nina and the Neurons, suddenly it's cool to be a scientist. Make the most of the summer and get experimenting outdoors!

You may have already seen or heard about the Coke and Mentos experiment. Basically you drop some Mentos in a bottle of Diet Coke and stand well back as it makes a big fizzy mess! First, you need to know what is going on. Fizzy drinks are just flavoured drinks that have a whole load of carbon dioxide gas dissolved into them. The gas stays trapped inside for as long as the lid is screwed on tight, when you take the lid off it will slowly come out as small bubbles. This is what makes the drink 'fizzy'. If you're a very patient person who really like watching bubbles, you could sit and watch it for a couple of days while each bubble gradually makes its way out. I'm guessing that you would like something a bit more dramatic! By dropping things into the bottle, you can get all those bubbles to form at once and rush out of the bottle in a big fountain. The most famous example is the Mento but it is not the only contender for best fizz-producer. You can try out other sweets, salt, sugar, cake sprinkles...whatever you have in the cupboard. Try different drink brands and flavours, which is best? Don't waste your money on expensive drinks, I've had great results with the cheapest supermarket brands.

Two very important things that you need to know: (1) This is an OUTDOOR experiment!!! It makes a big mess so make sure it is on the grass or somewhere that spillage doesn't matter. (2) Only use sugar-free drinks, they simply work better (and don't leave a horrid sticky mess in your garden). You might like to make a cardboard tube 'launcher' so you can drop several sweets in at once. Be warned it 'erupts' pretty quickly so stand back!

If you'd rather avoid messy science at home (or just want more!), try out Fab Science holiday clubs this summer. There will be guts and gooiness at Brilliant Bodies, homemade weather stations in Wonderful Weather and desert island survival skills in Shipwrecked!

Emma Ranade runs Fab Science, specialising in science parties, school workshops and holiday clubs.

Knife-throwing, magic and at least one laugh

Tom Swift is breaking free from pantomime in his one man show Tom-Foolery where he explores his magical side. The 31-year-old's debut solo performance will be coming to Harlow Playhouse on July 23 with 90 minutes of comedy, illusion and sleight of hand aimed at families.

"I'm quietly confident," said Tom, whose on stage presence is anything but quiet. He is taking a break from his forte of writing and performing in pantomimes to develop his one man act.

"It's quite daunting being on my own with no-one to interact with on stage. But I used to do one man bits in the past and I have got some good stuff planned."

Tom has to be pressed to unveil what is actually on offer in his one man show. Billed as "a journey of magic and comedy that will appeal to the whole family," there is a number of things he could conjure up - and the element of surprise is a trick he likes up his sleeve.

"I invite audience members up and do a ventriloquist act," explained Tom, "it's really good fun."

"There is also a knife throwing section, which is scary stuff. There is also lots of magic and get kids onto the stage."

"Some routines I have done many years ago from doing pantomime. Some of them are new ideas and some are ideas I have come up with over the years from different places."

With little script to rely upon, a 90-minute length show time might suddenly seem quite daunting for just one man with families and young children to keep entertained.

"It's quite difficult to judge," said Tom, "I don't know what sort of running order there will be. When you're getting people up on stage you don't know how long that is going to last for."

"I hope it's going to last about 90 minutes. I have time planned each sort of section so hopefully it will work. I have had a few people over to help rehearse it and make sure it works out."

"I want to get an opinion from people. I respect audiences are paying money to come and watch, so they would be expecting at least one laugh during the show!"

Tom-Foolery will be performed for the first time in Eastbourne before the Harlow date and he will also be taking it to Tunbridge Wells, where he lives, the week after.

After several successful pantomimes, both at Christmas and Easter holidays, Tom has become known to Harlow audiences for his louder than life stage presence.

But will this come across in his one man show, or will he display a bit more of himself?

"I will be playing a panto-type character, that way I can get away with a lot more on stage," he said.

"I think it will be very character based."

Tom has a more subtle wit in real life than comes across in his slapstick routines, and this is reflected in his self-deprecating write-up for Tom-Foolery. It reads: "Book tickets now to avoid disappointment (Tom's disappointment). All proceeds go directly to the Tom Swift foundation, a new charity dedicating to furnishing Tom's first home."

"I have to keep earning money somehow," laughed Tom, when asked about the last part.

"In all seriousness it's going towards my mortgage."

After Tom-Foolery winds up he will be back in pantomime mood, but this time he will be writing for productions in Margate and Tonbridge.

Wherever he performs panto he can be guaranteed to be on the biggest stage in one of the theatre's showcase events of the year.

However, Tom-Foolery will be held in the Studio of Harlow Playhouse, a more intimate setting where an audience can get up close and personal.

"It's quite daunting when it comes to the first show, but once I get out there my intuition will click in and I will remember that I am ok out there."

"I am kind of used to it. It's nice to have that intimacy, everyone is right near you in Harlow. I am looking forward to having everybody so close."

■ Tom-Foolery will be performed at Harlow Playhouse on Saturday, July 23 at 1pm and 3.30pm. Tickets cost £12.50 full price or £10.50 for concessions. For bookings and more information visit www.playhouseharlow.com or call (01279) 431945.

Artists unite for exhibition to celebrate town's heritage

THE spirit of Harlow's new town design is captured in a new exhibition from various artists.

This is Harlow: The New Town offers a story of Harlow in art featuring paintings, photograph, installations and sculptures.

The exhibition is being held at Gatehouse Arts Eastgate Gallery, in East Gate, Harlow until Saturday, July 30.

Hong Voon, from Harlow and a resident artist of Gatehouse Studios, is the project co-ordinator.

He said: "This group exhibition of work by local artists and local community groups will explore the history and development of the town."

"This exhibition will be a journey exploring Harlow town's

Company has a cunning plan

Blackadder is back with a cunning plan at Victoria Hall Theatre with Harlow Theatre Company paying tribute to a 1980s classic.

In their last performance before a summer break HTC are in the mood to have a laugh at British history by adapting the tongue-in-cheek antics.

Rowan Atkinson's anti-hero Edmund Blackadder appears in the show's four series in different scenarios but always with a sinister, but forever luckless, scheme.

HTC's production is set in the 16th century with Queen Elizabeth I on the throne, loosely based on the 1986 series Blackadder II.

"It has been great fun," said Barry Bowen, who is directing the play which runs from Wednesday, July 20 to Saturday, July 23.

"The artistic direction team get together every year and look at what we want to do. We wanted to do a comedy and we ended up with Blackadder.

"We have given the cast free reign in developing the characters and it has made for really good humour. They have read the jokes in the script a lot now but they are still laughing at them."

The historical sitcom spawned four series and several spin-offs making the show a staple of the 1980s and the 1990s when it was regularly repeated. It helped establish stars Atkinson, Tony Robinson, Hugh Laurie and writers Ben Elton and Richard Curtis into the top echelon of British comedy.

So how does Barry take a cult classic from the television and put it onto the stage?

"That was one of the main challenges," said the 65-year-old.

"It's the nature of theatre, a small and intimate setting and it does bring its challenges. We do on stage something that has six different themes without doing a huge set change. It was a challenge to design something for this purpose."

Instead of a traditional narrative the play will honour

WITH CUNNING PLAN: Clive Weatherley as Blackadder and Paul Stephenson as Baldrick

Blackadder II by adapting three television episodes from the Elizabethan era. Each episode will begin and end within the running time.

The plot of the three episodes will see Blackadder as a Tudor courtier trying to win favour with Queen Elizabeth I while avoiding being executed, a fate that befell many of her suck ups.

"We did a similar thing with Dad's Army," continued Barry. "A lot of the storylines in that era don't end very well as they lead into another episode."

"We have picked three which have characters continuing.

"He (Blackadder) is trying to improve his social position, but he is thwarted in every way. The three episodes are loosely linked. It wraps it up for the audience."

The cunning anti-hero will be played by Clive Weatherley, while Baldrick, his servant and sidekick, will be played by Paul Stephenson.

Queen Elizabeth is played by Wendy Grant, a nurse by Conchetta Clarizio while Leo Appleton will also appear. In all a relatively large cast of 15 will play 25 roles.

While there will be unavoidable parallels between the cast and their on screen counter-parts, Barry is keen to make sure they are not completely copying the mannerisms of Atkinson and Robinson.

He said: "We were careful with how close we went to try and imitate the actors.

"What we have said is if we try and copy the original, it is going to fail. We cannot try and improve on what was already pretty perfect.

"But we have to focus on characteristics and get enough of the resemblance to be close enough to make the play work.

Barry has been chairman of HTC for just over two years and has been a member of the group for 35, but he is still enthusiastic to deliver another great play.

"Rehearsals are going pretty well," he said. "We have been rehearsing in a refurbished Scout hut.

"In the summer it's a tricky one as people are on holidays, so it can be hard to get everybody up to speed.

"But it has been great fun."

He added: "I contacted the people who own the rights to the scripts and they said we can do what we like with it - even copying and pasting different parts of it.

"We were really surprised. They said that we could pay whatever it could cost for the rights to Comic Relief which I thought was a nice gesture."

Blackadder will be performed by Harlow Theatre Company at Victoria Hall Theatre in Bury Road, Old Harlow, from Wednesday, July 20 to Saturday, July 23.

Tickets cost £13 and £10 for concessions. Early booking is advised and tickets can be bought from www.ticketsource.co.uk/harlowtheatrecompany.

Kelis to cook and perform at Standon Calling festival

Singer-songwriter Kelis will mix things up at Standon Calling music festival by not only performing but cooking too.

The American will not only headline the event's main stage on Sunday night but will join a street food trader at the Welcome Feast for early bird revellers.

As a Le Cordon Bleu-trained chef, she has teamed up with South American cuisine stall Le Bun to create a bespoke Standon menu.

Kelis said: "Getting to spend a month in the UK cooking and performing really has been the best of both parts of my world."

Stalls at the event include Club Mexicana, Waffle On, Made of Dough, Cheeky Italian, Mac Factory and many more.

The foodie fun launches a musical weekend with Suede, Hess Glynn, Everything Everything and The Hives as headliners.

Standon Calling is running from July 29 to 31. Weekend tickets cost £147 plus booking fees, day tickets £57 from www.standon-calling.com. Tickets for the Welcome Feast should be bought separately and cost £20, under 12s free, with stalls opening from 4pm.

Kirk and co jump into warp speed

Star Trek Beyond

SCI-FI ACTION: (12A) 122 mins
Director: Justin Lin
Starring: Chris Pine, Zachary Quinto, Zoe Saldana, Karl Urban, Simon Pegg, Anton Yelchin, John Cho, Idris Elba, Sofia Boutella

DEDICATED to Anton Yelchin, who died in a freak accident in June, and Leonard Nimoy, the third instalment of the rebooted Star Trek is a familiar conflation of past and future present that fails to set its phasers to stun.

JJ Abrams vacated the director's chair to make Star Wars: The Force Awakens, so Justin Lin, who helmed four turbo-charged entries of The Fast And The Furious franchise, steps into the fray.

He orchestrates action set-pieces with confidence although some of the interstellar skirmishes are reduced to a dizzying blur by gyroscopic camerawork and overly enthusiastic editing.

In 3D and IMAX, the giddy whirl will be even more disorienting.

Script-writers Simon Pegg and Doug Jung stoke the comedic ante with a slew of wry one-liners and they complement one outlandish set piece with a deafening hip hop anthem, Sabotage.

"Is that classical music?" quips chief medical officer Dr Leonard McCoy (Karl Urban) over the cacophony.

Refreshingly, Sulu's sexuality is addressed without politically correct fanfare, propelling the adventures of Kirk and his embattled crew into a 21st century, which believes that strength comes from cultural unity.

The crew of the Enterprise are three years into their five-year mission to boldly go where the cult 1960s TV show went before, without the benefit of state-of-the-art digital effects.

STILL BOLDY GOING: Chris Pine reprises his role as Captain Kirk

Captain James T Kirk (Chris Pine) is considering relinquishing the bridge because "things have started to feel a little... episodic".

He keeps his plans secret from the rest of the crew including human-Vulcan science officer Spock (Zachary Quinto), communications officer Uhura (Zoe Saldana), navigator Pavel Chekov (Yelchin), chief engineer Montgomery Scott (Simon Pegg) and helmsman Sulu (John Cho).

During a visit to a Federation starbase under the control of Commodore Paris (Shohreh Aghdashloo), an alien called Kalar (Lydia Wilson) issues a distress call to help recover her ship, which has crash-landed on a planet in a distant nebula.

Kirk and the team respond and subsequently come under attack from an otherworldly despot called Krall (Idris Elba) and his swarming drones.

While the Enterprise crew forges an alliance with feisty alien warrior Jaylah (Sofia Boutella), Kirk holds firm to his moral compass, defiantly informing Krall that it's "better to die saving lives than to live taking them".

Star Trek Beyond dodges the curse of misfiring odd-numbered films in the series, but the flaws are obvious.

Pine, Quinto and co are solid in roles that lack dramatic meat and don't progress the characters over two hours, and a flimsy, contrived plot resolves potential conflict with minimum blood, sweat and tears.

Throughout, the script affirms the need for the multi-species crew to stick together in times of adversity. At least the utopian vision of original series creator Gene Roddenberry is in rude health.

Set your phasers for fun as we take a look back on 50 years of Star Trek

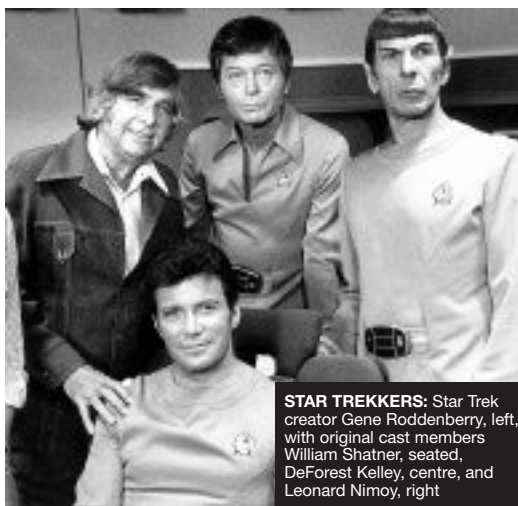

To mark 50 years of sci-fi classic Star Trek - and celebrate the release of the latest movie adventure Star Trek Beyond - Jared Tinslay boldly dips into the long and prosper archives...

IN THE BEGINNING...

1. In 1964, former pilot Gene Roddenberry drafted his first pitch for a new science-fiction series, which would later become Star Trek.
2. Despite paying for its creation, TV network NBC rejected the 1965 pilot of Star Trek, called The Cage, which counted Captain Pike, played by Jeffrey Hunter, Number One and Boyce among its crew.
3. One person who was sold on the idea was Lucille Ball, who co-owned Desilu Productions and convinced the studio to give it a second chance.
4. But Hunter, who also starred in John Wayne film The Searchers, didn't reprise his role as the Enterprise's captain, choosing to focus on film work instead.
5. The second pilot episode was called Where No Man Has Gone Before.
6. This time, the crew featured Captain James Kirk (William Shatner), half-Vulcan Mr Spock (Leonard Nimoy), Montgomery 'Scotty' Scott (played by the late James Doohan), and Hikaru Sulu (George Takei).
7. Keen to salvage The Cage, Roddenberry used flashbacks from the episode in later series, so the original crew lived on.

8. In 1966, the first regular episode, The Man Trap, was broadcast.
9. Texas-born Roddenberry, who died in 1991, originally pictured Mr Spock as having "reddish skin", but plumped for a greenish tinge on realising Nimoy would have to spend hours in make-up.
10. Ratings dipped after the series was moved to a graveyard slot, and by the third series, Roddenberry had resigned as the showrunner.
11. When at first you don't succeed, why not try in cartoon? That's what many of the original cast did when they voiced their characters in the 1973 animated Star Trek series.
12. The first big-screen outing was 1979's Star Trek: The Motion Picture. Slated for its lack of action, the film came hot off the heels of Star Wars: Episode IV.
13. Three years later, however, Star Trek II: The Wrath Of Khan, fared much better with critics, taking 78,912,963 US dollars at the box office.
14. The series returned to the small

screen with Star Trek: The Next Generation in 1987, set decades on from the original and starring Sir Patrick Stewart as Captain Jean-Luc Picard.

15. The Next Generation crew make their first film appearance in 1994's Star Trek: Generations. It's in this film that Captain Kirk dies.

16. After 2002's Star Trek: Nemesis, the Enterprise took a seven-year break from the big screen. The team returned with 2009's Star Trek under the guidance of J.J. Abrams, who brought in Nimoy as an elderly Mr Spock.

17. Matt Damon was reportedly considered - but turned down the role of George Kirk, James' dad, in the movie.

18. Roddenberry's wife, Majel Barrett, who played Nurse Chapel in the original series, is also known for voicing the Starfleet computer. She recorded her final part for the 2009 film before her death in 2008, aged 76.

19. Nimoy's last film appearance as Spock was in 2013's Into Darkness. He died in February 2015 aged 83.

20. Star Trek will be returning to television next year, with CBS developing a new series set in the same time as the most recent films.

21. The first annual Star Trek convention was held in New York in 1972.

22. London boasts the Guinness World Record for the largest gathering of people dressed as Star Trek characters, when 1,063 fans donned their costumes in 2012.

23. On learning of Nimoy's death, International Space Station astronaut Terry Virts tweeted his Vulcan salute from orbit.

24. Good at picking up languages? Why not have a go at Klingon or Vulcan?

Both actual languages, having been expanded and refined by professional linguists.

25. In 1976, the then-US president Gerald Ford was bombarded with thousands of letters from fans insisting the first NASA Space Shuttle should be called Enterprise. Their wish was granted but unfortunately Enterprise never made it into space.
26. Star Trek was sent up in a different way in 1999, however, with the release of popular parody Galaxy Quest.
27. British band The Firm spent two weeks at the top of the charts in 1987 with their number one hit Star Trekkin'.
28. The Royal Canadian Mint has introduced new coins inspired by Star Trek characters.
29. Star Trek and Star Wars have always had a 'friendly' rivalry, but in 2011, George Takei called for an end to the debate over which is superior. He called for 'star peace' amid an "ominous threat to all science fiction", in reference to the Twilight series.
30. Star Trek has been referenced in The Simpsons, Futurama and The Big Bang Theory.

FAMOUS FANS...

31. Martin Luther King Jr was a Trekkie. He convinced Nichelle Nichols to remain in the series as Uhura instead of pursuing a career on Broadway.
32. Lifelong fan Barack Obama delivered a heartfelt speech on learning of Nimoy's death.
33. Angelina Jolie told US TV host Jon Stewart she had a soft spot for Spock in her youth.
34. American actress, singer and writer Rosario Dawson is an avid fan, who has shown off her proficiency for Klingon during chat show appearances.
35. The character of Guinan was written for aficionado Whoopi Goldberg.
36. The only person to have guest starred as themselves is Stephen Hawking. In The Next Generation series, he plays a game of poker with Albert Einstein, Isaac Newton and Data.
37. Ronald Reagan visited the set in 1991 during filming of Redemption.
38. Eddie Murphy turned down a starring role in Star Trek IV - made specifically for him - to film The Golden Child.
39. King Abdullah II of Jordan briefly appeared on screen in season two of Voyagers when he was still the Crown Prince.
40. Patrick Stewart was impressed with Tom Hanks' knowledge of Star Trek, saying the Big Star doesn't just "watch every show, he reads the credits" too.
41. Simon Pegg co-wrote the new film, Star Trek Beyond, after the original writer pulled out. Pegg, known for his work on comedy Spaced and Shaun Of The Dead, also has a role in the movie as Scotty.
42. To research, Pegg and co-writer Doug Jung would bunker down and re-watch episodes of the original series.
43. In Pegg and Jung's story, the Starship Enterprise is three years into a five-year exploratory mission and the crew are feeling stir-crazy.
44. Although there will be a degree of levity to the film, Pegg insists it isn't a comedy.
45. Idris Elba will appear as a completely new character, a villain called Krall.
46. Fast & Furious director Justin Lin has taken over the director's baton from JJ Abrams.
47. The film reunites Chris Pine as James T Kirk, Zachary Quinto as Spock, Zoe Saldana as Uhura, Karl Urban as Leonard 'Bones' McCoy, John Cho as Sulu and Anton Yelchin as Chekov.
48. Yelchin tragically died in a freak car accident in June this year, aged 27.
49. The film was made in Vancouver and Dubai.
50. Saldana says one of the greatest privileges in her career was to have known Nimoy.

Star Trek Beyond is in cinemas from Friday, July 22

Speilberg's phizz-whizzing take on Dahl's magical tale

The final collaboration of Steven Spielberg and Melissa Mathison, director and screenwriter of ET: The Extra-Terrestrial, is a gloriously rendered of Roald Dahl's fantasy, peppered with the author's gobblefunk lexicon of jumbly words.

"Quite often, I am left instead of right," comments the title character to explain his muddled vocabulary, which re-christens two animals hippodumplings and jiggyraffes.

Sweetness and childish wonder glister in every frame, including a towering motion capture performance from Mark Rylance as the eponymous hulk, who blows bottled dreams into bedrooms using his phizz-whizzing metal trumpet.

On-screen rapport between the Oscar-winning actor and young co-star Ruby Barnhill galvanizes the picture, building to a rousing crescendo at Buckingham Palace, where a swig of frobscottle, the BFG's effervescent green brew, induces rip-roaring bouts of whizzopping that prove you can't beat a well-delivered fart gag.

The heroine is a precocious orphan called Sophie (Barnhill), who is snatched from her bed at the witching hour by a hooded 24-foot tall figure.

The behemoth spirits the girl over verdant valleys and crashing seas to the rolling landscapes of Giant Country.

"No such place!" Sophie defiantly informs her host, who introduces himself as the Big Friendly Giant (Rylance).

The BFG wouldn't normally kidnap a chiddler, but he explains that he was fearful

TALL TALE: Ruby Barnhill as Sophie and Mark Rylance as The BFG in the new Steven Spielberg film

Sophie might cause a great rumpledumpus by yodelling the news that she had seen a giant.

"No one would listen to me," she pleads, "I'm an untrustworthy child!"

A tender and deeply touching friendship is forged between Sophie and her kind-hearted abductor, who exists on a diet of disgusting snozzcumbers and is bullied by filthy fellow giants including Fleshlumpeater (Jemaine Clement), Bloodbottler (Bill Hader), Maidmasher (Olafur Darri Olafsson) and Manhugger (Adam Godley).

In order to rid Giant Country of these man-gobblers, Sophie hatches a hare-brained scheme to visit The Queen (Penelope Wilton) at Buckingham Palace.

The BFG joins her on this madcap quest, and his presence smacks the gobs of the assembled staff including The Queen's dutiful maid Mary (Rebecca Hall) and head butler Mr Tibbs (Rafe Spall).

Directed with verve by Spielberg, The BFG is a visually arresting ride that gently tugs heartstrings in between rollicking set pieces.

The child-napping unfolds from Sophie's perspective, cocooned in her blanket, a visit to the tree of dreams dazzles the senses, especially in 3D.

Rylance's digitally conjured character has a twinkle of believability in his eyes, and Cheshire-born Barnhill is a suitably spunky and spirited heroine in the midst of the eye-popping mayhem.

Some of the darker elements of Dahl's source text have been excised entirely – the noise of crackety-clack for miles around – so young audiences won't endure sleepless nights after the end credits roll.

A look at the life of one of our best-loved imaginations

His fantastical tales have stood the test of time, and now, to mark what would have been, Roald Dahl's 100th birthday this year, Gemma Dunn talks about this weekend's BBC documentary...

'THOSE who don't believe in magic, will never find it', read the final lines in Roald Dahl's last ever children's book, The Minpins – and the literary legend certainly lived by his word. Injecting a sparkle into all who encountered his work, the late author – known for whimsical tales such as Matilda and Charlie And The Chocolate Factory – would have celebrated his 100th birthday this September, and a whole host of programmes and events have been scheduled to commemorate the anniversary. On the small screen, BBC Two's focal documentary The Marvellous World Of Roald Dahl is set to delve into the writer's life. Here are some facts about the much-adored children's writer...

1. Born on September 13, 1916, in Llandaff, Cardiff, to Norwegian parents Harald and Sofie, Dahl – named after the Norwegian polar explorer Roald Amundsen – grew up speaking Norwegian as his first language, along with his three sisters.

2. In 1920, when Dahl was three, he lost his seven-year-old sister and father to appendicitis and pneumonia respectively. At seven years old, he was sent to The Cathedral School, Llandaff, where he was caned for putting a dead mouse in a jar of gobstoppers at the now infamous Mrs Pratchett's sweet shop.

3. He later attended Repton School in Derbyshire, where Dahl developed a fascination with chocolate (each term, the students would be sent a box of 12 Cadbury chocolate bars to test). It was this that inspired his delicious tale, Charlie And The Chocolate Factory.

4. Dahl famously criticised the 1971 movie adaptation of the book (Willy Wonka & The Chocolate Factory), in particular believing Gene Wilder's version of Willy Wonka to be too 'pretentious' and 'bouncy', and not nearly eccentric enough.

5. After finishing school in 1934, Dahl worked for Shell, which saw him relocate to Africa, where he experienced encounters with the likes of black mambas and other wildlife. It's these memories, illustrator Quentin Blake has said, that encouraged Dahl's book The Enormous Crocodile.

6. In 1939, he enlisted in the RAF as a WWII aircraftman. In 1940, his plane crash-landed in the Libya desert and Dahl suffered life-changing injuries that saw him hospitalised for six months.

7. A year after being discharged in 1941, he was posted to the British Embassy in Washington DC as an assistant air attaché. Here, he encountered his hero, writer CS Forester, which led to the publication of his first short story, Shot Down Over Libya (also known as A Piece Of Cake).

8. Dahl also supplied intelligence, working as a spy (although he preferred not to call it that) for Winston Churchill. It was in this role that he met Ian Fleming who went on to write the James Bond novels – hence Dahl penning the screenplay for You Only Live Twice in 1967.

9. His first children's book (although its audience is disputed) was The Gremlins in 1943. Despite collaborating with Walt Disney to make it into a film, the production was never finished.

10. At 6ft 6ins tall and with striking looks, Dahl enjoyed dalliances with American models and actresses, including Ginger Rogers. He married Oscar-winning actress Patricia Neal in 1953, and they went on to have five children – four daughters and one son – together. They divorced in 1983 and Dahl remarried, to Felicity Crosland.

11. Dahl asserted the most important thing in life is to bring sparkle to your children's lives. On occasion, he'd wake his children up in the middle of the night to go badger hunting.

12. Naturally, he also invented dinner-time stories – one being that cabbage was delivered by a Buckingham Palace footman, to get his children to eat their greens.

Get set for the great escape

It's time for many families to escape Britain and jet off somewhere more exotic. But for a lot of parents, a sunshine break brings the same childcare and child entertainment responsibilities they have at home - and that doesn't make for holiday relaxation.

However, plan your holiday well and take the right equipment and toys, and the whole family can have a great holiday, promise travel and parenting experts.

Here are their top tips for happy holidays with the kids...

TRAVELLING WITH YOUNG CHILDREN

Debi Green, founder of babygoes2.com, suggests:

- Take a holiday pack for toddlers of small activity items to dish out during your journey and the holiday itself. This could include a colouring book and crayons, puzzles, small toys like finger puppets, a picture or story book, and a scrapbook to put their memories from the trip in.

- Introduce a fixed and regular quiet time when young children always come out of the sun and concentrate on an activity from their holiday pack, and possibly have a nap. Make a communal 'holiday chill area' in the shade, using lilos, towels, and pillows.

- Take children on a short treasure hunt and make a seaside or countryside sculpture from what they've collected.

- Take a few simple wrapped toys or games and create a lucky dip for mid-holiday excitement.

- If staying in a villa, pack a small paddling pool - fun for babies and tiny tots, and easy to monitor from your sun lounger.

- Organise a mini pool Olympics, which can be as simple as jumping in the pool, swimming to a rubber ring and picking up something from the pool floor, all timed.

- Encourage slightly older children to compile a holiday diary or scrapbook, or an online photo album.

CATER FOR SUCCESS

Catherine Cooper (www.catherinecooper.net), author of Travelling With Children: A Parent's Guide (Need 2 Know, £9.99), suggests families with young children opt for self-catering accommodation if possible.

"You can prepare meals when you want, put them down for a nap when you want and sit outside and have a glass of wine while they sleep," she points out.

Cooper also believes kids' clubs are a "godsend", although she advises parents ask

Taking the kids on holiday doesn't always spell relaxation and down-time for parents - but a bit of prep and planning can ensure everybody has a good time. Lisa Salmon quizzes the experts questions such as: What's the children-to-adult ratio? What are the opening times? And how are the age groups split?

She adds: "You probably won't want to send them off for the whole week, but a few mornings or afternoons here and there will give you the time to relax, and them the time to make new friends - and often try out some amazing activities."

KEEP TEENS ENGAGED

Green warns that when it comes to holidaying with teenagers, it's "slightly more tricky, since boredom looms a little larger on their horizon".

- If possible, choose a holiday with an element of independence - perhaps they can walk to a nearby shop or the beach on their own.

- Give them their own space, perhaps a den or an area around the pool for chilling.

- Plan to fend off boredom - days with a good mix of chilling and active periods work well.

GROWN-UP TIME

Parents have to make time for themselves too - it is everyone's holiday after all. Green suggests that you:

- Remove obvious hazards that will thwart relaxation; choose gated pools for non-swimmers, enclosed gardens, no high balconies or outside staircases.

- Consider holidaying with friends or family so you can take turns to supervise, and so the children have playmates.

- Hire a babysitter or nanny for a few hours as often as you can afford it. Green explains: "Children are relaxed because parents are still on site, but parents can relax because the nanny is taking the responsibility of monitoring."

- Some resorts offer a 'babe watch' service, where they'll briefly look after babies and toddlers in a shady area.

- Choose sun loungers close to the children's pool or beach so you can be easily watch the kids from a comfortable position, and also choose a room where you can relax outside while babies and younger children nap.

BE REALISTIC

"Holidays with children are not the same as romantic couples getaways or trips with friends," warns Mumsnet editor Kate Williams. "The best way to truly enjoy holidays with young children is to be realistic about what's likely to make them reasonably content."

"For all but the most adventurous, this probably involves food your children will eat, a temperate climate, comfortable sleeping arrangements, a reasonable travel time and plenty of outdoorsy possibilities - in the hope that an early night for them means a couple of hours off for you."

Healthy and tasty salads for those hot summer days

HAVE been thinking a lot about my forthcoming holiday lately and that I should probably go on a bit of a health kick in advance of the excesses that will no doubt ensue when I am surrounded by the culinary delights that Provence has to offer.

In theory, it should be easier to eat healthily during the summer months, but in practice I find this is rarely true.

There is no doubt that the availability of fresh produce and the warmer temperatures are conducive to lighter meals, so I wanted to focus on a healthy theme for this week's column.

I hosted another sell-out cookery course at Baythorne Hall cookery school in Haverhill, Suffolk, last week and we tried out some new technology by live-streaming one of my recipes on Facebook.

The recipe is for one of my favourite healthy meals and my 'meat-free Monday' staple, dhal sambhar:

Lentil-based dishes are a great way to have a filling and comforting meal with lots of healthy protein which keep you feeling fuller for longer.

Dhal sambhar introduces loads of healthy vegetables into the mix and there is absolutely no compromise on flavour, with garlic, curry leaves, mustard seeds and chilli adding freshness and zing to every mouthful. You can see the full video and recipe on my Facebook page, SairaHamiltonChef, if you want to have a go yourself.

But my main topic this week is salad. I had the perfect excuse to get creative with salads the weekend before last as I was invited to a barbecue hosted by one of our neighbours for the residents of 'our road'. We have these neighbourly events fairly regularly and it is great to get to know some of our neighbours a bit better.

Now some people (yes, I mean you, husband Jim) will maintain that barbecues are all about the meat, but I disagree. The meat for me is merely an excuse, a foil if you will, for the vast array of salads which I feel should be present at this sort of al-fresco dining event.

There always has to be a green salad of mixed leaves; this is the staple salad of any barbecue spread. My top tip for lettuce is always to serve it dry; if it is wet then the dressing will never cling to the leaves. If you don't have a salad spinner to dry your lettuce after washing, I would recommend investing in one.

I always make a tomato salad separately because I love the juicy sweetness of tomatoes in the height of their season and they don't always stand up well when mixed with other crunchy vegetables.

My salad is adapted from a Ree Drummond recipe (my favourite cowgirl cook) in which the tomatoes are marinated for an hour or two at room temperature with very finely sliced spring onions and lots of fresh basil and/or parsley in a dressing made from 150ml extra virgin olive oil, 60ml balsamic vinegar, 2 tbsp light brown sugar and salt and pepper.

This is an amazing combination and the dressing is particularly good for

with Masterchef semi-finalist Saira Hamilton being mopped up with crusty white bread at the end of the meal.

My top tip for tomatoes is never to store them in the fridge. They taste so much better at room temperature; their natural sweetness will come through much more. Try mixing up the types of tomatoes in your salad; different colours and sizes, or even heritage tomatoes if you can find them, make the visual impact much greater and the flavours better too.

Another beautiful salad is one that my Canadian friend Christine makes. She tells me it is originally a recipe by Rick Stein from one of his European odysseys, but I've always considered it to be hers!

This salad combines canteloupe melon, cucumber, tomato, crumbly goat's cheese and fresh mint leaves and is finished with a dressing made from olive oil, red wine vinegar, caster sugar and salt and pepper. The combination of sweet melon and salty goat's cheese, seasoned with lots of freshly ground black pepper, is a complete revelation and delicious on its own for a light lunch.

And the third salad I made uses one of my favourite summer ingredients: peaches. For me, peaches and nectarines, which work equally well in this salad, are the taste of summer. They remind me of European holidays as a child, where I was amazed by the intense flavour and juiciness of these stone fruits when eaten in Greece or Spain on a hot sunny day.

Although the flavours of peaches bought in this country are not always so good, in this recipe they are grilled and peeled, which increases the intensity of the flavour. Mixed with rocket, feta cheese and crispy prosciutto or Parma ham in a balsamic vinaigrette, this was the biggest hit with my neighbours on the day!

Finally, I would like to bid a fond farewell to Herts & Essex Observer editor Paul Winspear. I have been writing this column for over three years now and that would not have been possible without him. Thanks, Paul, for your wit, wisdom, humour and dedication to our local community. We wish you the best of luck in your future endeavours.

RECIPES:

MARINATED TOMATO SALAD

6-8 ripe tomatoes, sliced
4 spring onions
150ml extra virgin olive oil
60ml balsamic vinegar
2 tbsp light brown sugar
1/2 tsp sea salt
1/2 tsp ground black pepper handful fresh chopped basil and/or parsley, finely chopped

METHOD:

Cut the tomatoes and arrange in a shallow bowl. Slice the spring onions very finely and scatter on top.

In a screw top jar, add all the dressing ingredients and shake together until well combined.

Pour the dressing over the tomatoes and leave to marinate for 1-2 hours at room temperature before enjoying.

MELON & GOAT'S CHEESE SALAD

1/2 canteloupe melon
1/2 cucumber, peeled and sliced
2 vine tomatoes, de-seeded and sliced into wedges
150g crumbly goat's cheese
12-14 mint leaves, roughly torn
60ml virgin olive oil
1 tbsp red wine vinegar
1/2 tsp caster sugar salt & pepper

METHOD:

Slice the melon, cucumber and tomatoes and arrange on a serving platter.

Crumble the goat's cheese on top then scatter over the torn mint leaves.

Whisk together the dressing ingredients until well combined then drizzle all over the salad.

Season with some more freshly ground black pepper then enjoy.

ROCKET, PEACH AND FETA SALAD

200g feta cheese, cut into cubes

6 slices prosciutto / Parma ham
100g rocket leaves
4 peaches or nectarines
3 tbsp balsamic vinegar
4 tbsp extra virgin olive oil
salt & pepper

METHOD:

Whisk together the dressing ingredients and season well with salt & pepper.

Grill the prosciutto under a hot grill until crisp and remove to a plate to cool.

Cut the peaches into quarters and remove the stones, then place under the hot grill, skin-side up for 3-4 minutes until the skins blacken.

Take the peaches out and remove the skins with a paring knife. They should come off very easily.

In a serving bowl, place the rocket leaves and toss with half of the dressing.

Arrange the peach slices, scatter over the feta cheese and then chop the crispy ham into thin slices and scatter over the top.

Drizzle with the remaining dressing and serve.

Team to stage classic show

THERE will be plenty of home-grown talent on display as a Hollywood classic is staged in Stevenage, Herts.

Preparations are under way to bring one of the best-loved films of all time, Singin' in the Rain, to the Gordon Craig Theatre.

The classic numbers including Good Morning, You Were Meant For Me, and the title track will be accompanied by live rain onstage.

The cast includes some of the area's brightest talents.

Adam Shorey plays Roscoe Dexter, the exasperated director tasked with turning the fictional silent film The Duelling Cavalier into a musical.

Coincidentally, Adam is moving to Stevenage from his current home town of St Albans.

"It will be home soon, I feel like I am going to want to put down roots," he said.

He has been acting since he was ten years old, appearing in Grange Hill and Family Affairs, and graduating from Mount View Drama School in 2010.

Adam said: "It sounds like a cliché, but it has always been one of my favourite shows."

"It has always been on the

TALENTS: Henry Eaglesfield, Maddie Hope Coelho, Adam Shorey

radar as something I would like to do, particularly at this theatre.

He added: "I have no idea how they are going to do the rain, but I have got every faith.

"The technical crew here are amazing, what they are capable of doing is astounding."

Maddie Hope Coelho will be taking her place in the ensemble.

The 20-year-old is originally from Suffolk and moved to Hitchin in January, and is no stranger to the Gordon Craig.

She told the Mercury: "I've worked for the last two panto seasons and it's one of my favourite venues."

She added: "I've been dancing since I was eight years old and graduated from Laine Theatre Arts in 2015."

"I've always wanted to do a musical, I saw Singin' in the Rain in the West End and got absolutely drenched!

"I'm looking forward to giving the audience that experience."

Appearing alongside Maddie will be another emerging talent, Henry Eaglesfield.

Sixteen-year-old Henry, from Buntingford, has just finished his GCSEs at Freman College, and also attends the Buntingford School of Dance.

He said: "I've done shows here before during the summer holidays for the last few years and there's such a nice atmosphere here."

"I've been performing as long as I can remember, and at Gordon Craig since Oliver! in 2011."

The production runs from Tuesday, August 16 to Saturday, August 27, tickets cost from £18.

PROPERTY TALK

>with NIGEL LEWIS

Is Hoddle set for a return to England?

Following the poor performance of the England football team at Euro 2016 and the resignation of Roy Hodgson, the search is now on for a new manager for the beleaguered team.

And it now looks likely that Glen Hoddle – who was appointed England manager in 1996 but sacked in 1999 – could be offered the job.

Hoddle is one of football's more colourful characters. As well as a distinguished playing career for Tottenham Hotspur, AS Monaco and England, and successful management stints at Swindon Town, Chelsea and England, Hoddle also released a hit pop record, Diamond Lights in 1987.

He's also a very keen golfer and 13 years ago bought a large villa in the Sotogrande golf resort on the Costa del Sol. In 2008 Hoddle established a football academy in Jerez although in 2011 this was relocated to the UK.

But the 59-year-old says he's now looking to move to a new area of Europe to play golf.

His five-bedroom and four-bathroom Sotogrande villa with landscaped gardens and a swimming pool is currently for sale with Chestertons (020 7201 2071, www.chestertons-international.com) for £2,047,920. It comes with beautiful views over Sotogrande's famous golf course as well as a garage for two cars and a games room.

"I love the area and there are some of the most wonderful golf courses in Europe there," he says. "My favourite part of the house is the terrace. I've spent many, many hours chilling and eating with family and friends.

"The views are wonderful and there is a calmness about sitting there, but feel I want to experience a different place now."

CLIO GETS CUTER

By Chris Russon

IT'S 25 years since the Renault Clio first arrived in Britain and it's a car that just keeps getting better and better.

The fourth generation model – launched back in 2012 – gave the French favourite a shot in the arm and now it is revamp time.

Come October a new-look Clio will be on the scene, smartened up inside and out and featuring extra technology plus new power options.

And for fans of hot Clios the very potent Renault Sport versions are also getting some enhancements to push up their fun factor.

Prices for the new line up will start from £11,555 – an increase of some £500 – and a new diesel in top grade Dynamic S Nav trim becomes the flagship of the hatchback range priced from £17,755.

It is powered by a 110ps 1.5-litre diesel mated to a six speed manual gearbox which not only gives the new Clio a good amount of pull but is also rated at more than 80 miles per gallon with emissions down to 90g/km.

And that's not the most economical model – a 90ps version has an official fuel return of 88.3mpg.

On the road, the new diesel impresses, drives well and in everyday conditions more than 60 to the gallon is easily achievable.

The new engine is also the quickest of the diesel Clios and on the petrol front there's another newcomer in the form of a 1.2-litre 120ps manual which is even sharper out of the blocks.

This one can manage 0 to 60 in nine seconds making it the briskest of the new Clios and has a better fuel return than the automatic 1.2 model Renault has had in the range for the past four years.

The new 1.2-litre manual has carbon emissions of 118g/km compared to 120g/km for the auto which equates to an official fuel return of 53.3mpg – we saw an average of 37mpg.

In the new Clio the 1.2 manual can be had from £15,455 or £1,200 more for range topping trim which makes it quite a car.

Sat nav, full LED lighting, automatic climate control and parking sensors all round are standard and throughout the range Renault has improved the Clio's interior with more supportive seats and better quality trim.

The entry level Clio is now fitted with Renault's R&GO connectivity system which hooks up a smartphone's functions to the car giving access to more music and the phone's navigation display.

Personalisation options – key attractions in the modern hatch market – remain plentiful and the new Clio can be had with 30 combinations of trim, colours and decal accoutrements.

There are also some new paint jobs including a deep red and a classy grey finish.

At the performance end of the scale the Clio's reputation switches dramatically from everyday runaround to track ready thunder machine with the Renault Sport derivatives which pump out up to 220bhp from their 1.6-litre turbo engines.

As such the Clio Trophy is the hottest of the bunch – quicker than the likes of Ford's Fiesta ST and Vauxhall's Corsa VXR – and it handles too.

Priced from £19,380 the Clio Renault Sport is available with a choice of Sports chassis for more regular road use, a Cup set up with bigger wheels and a stiffer feel and the finely tuned Trophy model with lowered suspension and the power boosted up from the 200bhp of the other two.

All three come with Renault's distinctive new RS Vision LED lights laid out to mimic a chequered flag and delivering up to 40 per cent more illumination than standard lamps.

The Renault Sport cars are also fitted with Akrapovic exhausts which not only help the performance but in the Trophy that we put through its paces on the track produced a deliciously throaty soundtrack.

The hot Clios are auto only and come fitted with large paddle shifters on the steering column for manual changes but such is the smart technology used in the gearbox that it's right on cue when it comes to gear selection.

Let the Trophy loose and 0 to 60 flashes up in a brisk 6.6 seconds. Top speed is pushing 150mph and officially it's rated at 47.9mpm with CO2 emissions of 135g/km.

Fanciful is an understatement and having fun in this hot Clio saw an average of just 22mpg on the trip computer which can also display a host of other track session data which can be downloaded for analysis on your home computer – telematics akin to that used in professional motor sport.

The latest Renault Sport models are serious cars indeed but demonstrate how far the Clio has come.

It is now the top selling French car ever with more than 13 million sold worldwide and 1.2 million of those have been in Britain.

And our 25 year love affair with this French fancy shows no sign of waning with 12,589 Clios sold in the first six months of this year putting it well into the top ten of the hatchback sales charts.

Claire Petulengro YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

You were ignoring important matters, but this week you're willing to face them head on. You've had time to rest and to plan your next very important move. With the ideas you're about to carry out, you can succeed in areas you were about to give up on earlier in the month. A moody younger person comes round by Thursday. Ring now so I can help you find clear vision.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 348 65p per minute

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

You may not like the advice your close ones are giving, but you know deep down inside they only have your best interests at heart. Use Tuesday and Thursday as your power days to bring life back under your control. A better personal and professional life is waiting if you do. Time spent with Sagittarius opens up a new career avenue. Ring now so we can find the facts behind current rumors.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 349 65p per minute

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

Jealousy is strong in your chart and is standing in the way of you having a healthy relationship. Your emotions and your imagination are working overtime and you begin to feel as if you need more of a commitment than is being offered. Step back and you'll see that actions will speak louder than words if you'll let them. Ring now to hear how house moves beckon for some of you.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 350 65p per minute

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22

Your career comes under the spotlight and those of you who have been involved in the wrong career will now take steps to get into the right job. Patience with an older person pays dividends and helps you to gain a better relationship with them. Luck in financial and legal matters ends your week on a high and gives you back your confidence. Ring now to make the most of your stars.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 351 65p per minute

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23

Your chart indicates that you are pushing for a change you may regret asking for. Why not use this week to look at the evidence, rather than making rash decisions. Travel is well starred and can do much to enhance your love life. Jupiter helps you to make contact with a financial link you thought could be your downfall, but can actually be your saviour. Ring now and I'll reveal a secret.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 352 65p per minute

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22

If you don't have faith in what you are doing, then why should others? Try to believe in your dreams and so too will close ones. A rumour in the family is unlikely to be true, so be careful of casting blame where it may not be due. You could ruin a relationship which has only just got back on track if you do. Ring now to hear why you can afford to ask for so much more in love this year.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 353 65p per minute

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

Try to have a more laid back attitude to relationships, as it can only be of benefit to you if you do. Stop judging people on their past and allow them just to be. Flirtations which take place at the weekend have the chance to be something much more serious if you're willing to trust in your feelings and not just the advice of others. Ring now so I can tell you what Venus can help you achieve.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 354 65p per minute

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 - NOVEMBER 21

Try not to cast opinions on those you don't really know or you will only be setting yourself up for a very big fall. You of all signs should know how important it is to give others the chance to prove themselves. So think back to two years ago when many of you had a dramatic fall from grace. Showing trust can earn you a friend for life. Ring now to hear how you're more psychic this week.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 355 65p per minute

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 20

New situations bring out new emotions and help you to see that the world is a much bigger place than you thought it was at the beginning of this year. Jealousy in the family is behind comments you'll be making and receiving this weekend. Tiredness for you and many of the signs is behind such words and actions. Rein it in to come out a happier Sagittarian. Ring now to reveal all.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 356 65p per minute

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 - JANUARY 20

So many people seem to think they know what is best for you, when it is actually you, and you alone, who should decide what to do with your life. I know you're scared to ask for what you want, but those close to you will not be as surprised as you may think. Foreign links prove lucky in business and finances. Ring now so we can talk about those recent mixed emotions.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 357 65p per minute

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 - FEBRUARY 19

Someone you thought you could trust with a secret has let you down, but in the long run this will be a benefit to your life. Keep thinking positive and life will be positive. What was being denied would have come out in the end anyway. You and I know that! An ex comes to mind with something you read or hear. Trust your first instincts in what to do next. Ring now to maintain control.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 358 65p per minute

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 - MARCH 20

Work and play go well together, as you get the chance to take professional relationships to a more enjoyable space in your life. Working on solo projects is also well starred and you learn how to balance your family life better. You enter August with the knowledge that you have shaped life and love more to your needs. Ring now to hear why it's worth rechecking the written word.

Basketball

Leopards set to return to Harlow Leisurezone

Basketball back for another six matches in the town

LEVETT Leopards will return to Harlow Leisurezone for a third season with at least six games at the venue.

The 2014/15 National Basketball League champions will play five league games and all their National Cup home ties there as they continue their partnership with Harlow Hawks.

"We're looking forward to returning to Harlow" said Leopards' general manager Dave Ryan.

"Our partnership with Hawks is working really well, and the crowds are growing.

"It was great to see so many kids playing at the Hawks' camp over the weekend, and hopefully those young players will continue to support pro basketball in Harlow."

Steve Ogunjimi's team play their first home league game of the campaign when they host newly-promoted Loughborough Riders on Saturday October 15.

Busy

It will be only the second time that the sides have met, with the previous clash coming in the National Cup quarter-final with the Big Cats winning 78-73 on the road.

That will be part of a busy weekend in Harlow for the Big Cats as they are also in action there the following day in the National Cup third round.

Leopards will host the winner of the second round tie between Ipswich and Chelmsford Lions or Essex Blades, with the Suffolk side hot favourites to make the trip to Harlow.

The winner of Leopards' third round tie will be on the road in the next stage, with London Lituanica or Kent Crusaders being the most likely opponents, although the Big Cats could face their nursery side Oaklands College Wolves.

The fifth round would see the Big Cats return to Harlow on November 20, if they qualify, with Hemel Storm or Reading Rockets the most likely qualifiers.

The other Division One newcomers Solent Kestrels are the visitors to Leisurezone on Saturday November 26 in what will be the first meeting between the clubs, although Kestrels' predecessors Solent Stars were regular opponents of the Big Cats in their first few seasons.

London Lituanica are the visitors to Harlow on Saturday December 12, and the two sides have had some thrillers over the last few years.

The same could be said of Derby Trailblazers who visit Leisurezone on Saturday February 11, with both of last season's league meetings between the clubs going down to the final seconds of the game.

Two weeks later on Saturday February 25 Westminster Warriors will arrive in Harlow for what is likely to be Leopards' final game of the season at Leisurezone.

The London team became the first visiting side to win at Harlow last season as they snapped a ten-game winning streak for the Big Cats, but Leopards gained revenge by beating them home and away in the league.

Chiassaro's a record breaker

ATHLETICS: A brilliant summer for Richard Chiassaro just keeps on getting better after he broke the British T54 400m record.

The 34-year-old wheelchair racer was competing at the Newham Parallel Success and Open Event.

On Sunday, he broke the British record in the 400m with a time of 45.98sec and in doing so became only the third person in history to ever go sub-46.

He also won the 800m with a personal best of 1:32.96 and won the 100m in a time of 15:00.

The Harlow Athletic Club member is currently world number one over 400m and 800m and world number two over 200m.

Last month, Chiassaro captured his first European title as he starred at the IPC Athletics European Championships in Italy and added three silver medals during that week at the Carlo Zecchini stadium in Grosseto.

Neil so Glad for big victory

CRICKET: Harlow Town skipper Neil Gladwin was ecstatic after his team overcame Leigh-on-Sea by 96 runs in Shepherd Neame Essex League Division Two on Saturday.

Gladwin smashed 96 and Shiraz Ali (35) and Patrick Yates (32) as Harlow racked up 249.

In reply, Shaun Alderson took 5-36 and Daniel Farmer and Ben Eversden two a piece as Leigh-on-Sea were skittled out for 153.

"The way we fought in the field was immense," said Gladwin.

"From the outset the boys were pumped up and knew that the game had huge importance.

"Once we had posted a very competitive score, all five bowlers bowled beautifully.

"Farmer made the initial breakthroughs, but Ben Eversden, Paul Morrell and Jack Elston supported brilliantly.

"Jack bowled for the team and implemented our plans wonderfully. He didn't take a wicket, but deserved much more.

"Obviously our stand out performer was Shaun. His line and length was spot on, and he ripped through Leigh's line up.

"Personally, it was great to be able to contribute after a few quiet weeks. Seeing our top three go cheaply, it was imperative that Shiraz and I stuck around.

"The two partnerships between myself and Shiraz and then with Pat, set us up for a really competitive total.

"We take on bottom side Wickford this weekend and if we can match what we did in the field against Leigh, I'm very confident we can win."

Team GB on the hunt for future Olympians at school

Schools

PUPILS at St Nicholas School have been given a glimpse into what it takes to be an Olympic star with the hope that some might just one day represent Great Britain.

To capitalise on the success of the London 2012 Olympic Games, the Lee Valley White Water Center set up a Talent Identification Programme, 'Rapid Talent' with the aim of finding potential competitive canoeists to represent Team GB.

Last year 20 pupils from local schools were selected to be part of the initial programme in Lee Valley and are now following a one year development programme of regular training and competing in the sport, aiming to reach regional level.

TESTING TIMES: The St Nicholas pupils with the GB coaches

Saint Nicholas School welcomed the Team GB coaches to their school to conduct two fitness tests, the multi-stage endurance test and the power jump test with the Year 6 pupils.

There were some exceptional performances, resulting in a number of pupils being selected for the next stage of testing.

Shaun Pearce, lead performance pathway coach, told the pupils at the Old Harlow school that it was the "best Year 6 group we have worked with this year".

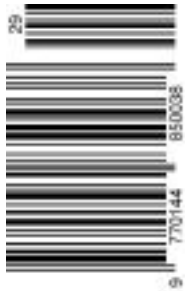

He added: "We are excited by the number of the talented students that excelled in the testing at Saint Nicholas.

"Clearly these pupils have the necessary characteristics and potential to become an Olympic level canoe slalom paddler."

Charlotte Harding-Jones, Ciaran Gilligan, Ellie Dainton, Isabella Farey, Maddie Issacs, Mathew Forrow, Oliver Fisher, Oliver Mardel, Jakob have all been selected for the next phase of selection at the Lee Valley White Water Centre in Waltham Cross at the end of the July.

Brilliant Bethany hits new heights for GB

BETHANY HARRYMAN brought home a silver and bronze medal from the World Catholic School Games in Beauvais in France.

The 15-year-old had been selected to represent Great Britain in high jump and long jump.

Bethany, whose sister Naomi is also a talented athlete, competed in the high jump first where she battled through hot weather to win the silver medal.

The youngster will have another two chances to go one step further as she will remain in the U18 age group for another two years.

Bethany then competed in a very tough long jump competition and managed to qualify in the last eight. She then jumped three new personal bests to finish in fifth place overall.

She ended the week by running in the relay and was awarded a bronze medal thanks to the overall score of the GB women's team.

It was her first international competition and she made friends with athletes from all over the world.

There were 25 different countries represented at the games, including Brazil, Palestine and Malta, competing in sports including football, basketball and swimming.

Bethany attends St Marks Catholic school who have been very supportive.

"My PE teacher Mrs Erica Larke nominated me for the games last year," she said.

"She has always supported my sporting life and always encourages me to succeed. I am lucky to have great PE staff!"

The teenager has been asked to represent GB again next year due to her success.

She has also qualified for the National English Schools heptathlon final in Exeter in September.

All's Well that ends Wells for cricket team

HARLOW Cricket Club won an entertaining match against Woodford Wells at a sun-baked Marigolds.

Skipper Rehman Ahmed chose to bat and the hosts started well with openers Alan Jones (18) and Hafiz Yawar putting on 46 before Jones was clean bowled off Usman Sahar.

Yawar kept piling on the runs with skipper Ahmed in a partnership of 124 until he was lbw for 70 from the bowling of leg spinner Tanveer Shah.

Ahmed followed shortly after for 65, caught behind.

With the platform set on 177-3 on 30 overs, the rest of the Harlow batsmen took the score to 298-8 off 50 overs.

Ahmed Khawaja (44), Ubaid Kiani (23), Zabi Hakimi (35) were the main contributors.

Woodford's reply started with a partnership of 49 from eight overs between Joe Johnson and Jack Johnson.

That was broken by some sharp fielding and a brilliant throw leading to a direct hit by Hakimi at mid-on.

Shout

The run out of Jack Johnson (31) was followed by a catch from Mustanser Meraj to dismiss fellow opener Joe Johnson (18).

This brought together Michael Arblaster and Tanveer Shah, the former the league's top run scorer. Harlow had a huge shout for lbw against him when he was on just 15, from the bowling of Mitch Howarde, but it was turned down by the umpire.

Arblaster kept chipping away at the score. It wasn't until Luke Heskett got a breakthrough by trapping Shah lbw for 28, that Harlow thought they could get back into the game. With the score on 173-4 off 30 overs the next five overs were pivotal.

Heskett took another wicket in Gareth James, caught at cover by Yawar. Yawar then removed Arblaster, caught behind for 91.

Jon Gaffney took the game to Harlow, hitting boundaries, however he was losing partners as Nick Baxter was reintroduced into the attack. He eventually bowled Gaffney for 47.

Heskett picked up 2-49 and Baxter 4-49 in mopping up the tail as Woodford Wells finished on 268 from 49 overs.

Harlow are at Billericay this Saturday, a team they haven't played for several years.

NEW Harlow Town striker Kieran Bishop believes that the Hawks are good enough to play in the Football League in the near future.

The 25-year-old front man was snapped up by boss Danny Chapman from Ware, and having been at the Ryman Premier club for just a few weeks, Bishop is already hugely impressed with what he has seen.

"I think I'm going to do very well at Harlow - I've been here for the past three or four weeks and done a few sessions now.

"All the fans have welcomed me with open arms which is a pleasure.

"The club has got a lot of potential, they are very professional and I reckon we'll go a long way.

"The players are good, we're not looking to change too much this season with the way we play so hopefully we'll do well - play-offs hopefully - that's what we'll push for."

Bishop feels the Hawks will hold their own in the Ryman Premier having made the step up after winning the play-offs.

"I think we're much higher than a Premier side," he said. "We've got the potential to be maybe even a Football League club in a few years.

"That's the aim for everybody at the club and the players.

"As long as we stick to our guns and the team stays gelled, I reckon we're much higher than a Ryman club, and can push and be a Football League club."

Force

Bishop, who was Ware's top scorer last season, netting 30 goals, will be combining with Alex Read up front, making for a potent attacking force.

"I know Alex, he's a good player and with my attributes I think I can bring to the line-up as well, I reckon it will be a powerful combination," said Bishop.

Bishop reflected on his reasons for joining Harlow as opposed to a higher level club.

"I had a trial with Crawley Town, I had a lot of offers from clubs in the Conference South, but it was mainly the fact that when Harlow contacted me they were serious, and made me an offer straight away," he said.

"It was just the professionalism of the club. I played against them quite a few times at Ware and they were always very professional, the stadium, and I've always looked forward to playing against them."
